

South Vietnam Pacification Efforts Hit Major Snags

By R. W. APPLE JR.
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
SAIGON—Important American officials here and in Washington are changing their minds about the problem of pacifying the South Vietnamese countryside.
Until recently, they had put most of their hopes on the 50-man revolutionary development teams, trained at Chungtau and sent into villages and hamlets up and down the country to try to re-establish the authority of the Saigon government.

SPRING CLEANING
Those items uncovered during spring cleaning can be sold by calling Want Ads at 723-1400.

Now the officials are beginning to conclude that the teams are not the only answer, and perhaps not even the best one.
The new hope is the process of political evolution that has been underway in South Vietnam for the last 10 months.
One prominent American said he thought there was one chance in three that the creation of representative government would generate a pro-Saigon groundswell in the provinces. Some of his colleagues are more optimistic, others less so, but almost all are focusing sharply on "democracy-building."

A large part of the reason for the change, which is reflected more in private conversation than in public utterances, is the surprising progress in the political field and the discouraging difficulties that have plagued the 59-man teams.
The constituent assembly has produced a new charter, under which a president, a vice president, a senate and a house of representatives will be elected this fall. The military regime has scheduled hamlet and village elections in secure areas beginning April 2, and rudimentary political dialogue appears to have begun.
Paradoxically, pacification workers were able to help produce a large vote in the constituent assembly elections last fall. They trailed from village to hamlet, exhorting peasants to cast their ballots.
But the workers have been far less successful in their major role—remaining in insecure hamlets day and night.
For one thing, there are simply not enough teams to do the

WEATHER
Warmer weather comes into the area today under cloudy skies. There is a chance of showers this afternoon and evening. The seasonal rabbit will probably be using an umbrella tomorrow to hide eggs as showers are again forecast. High temperature today will be between 45 and 50 and tomorrow the thermometer will hit the mid 50s. Probability of precipitation is 40 per cent today and 50 per cent tomorrow. Winds are southeasterly at 12 to 20 mph. Yesterday's results: precipitation, .14 inches; river, 2.8 feet and falling; high temperature, 42; low 28. Sunrise is at 6:16 a.m. and sunset 6:38 p.m. Tomorrow's sunrise, 6:14 a.m. and sunset 6:39 p.m.

EASTER SEASON
Around the world, Christians observed Good Friday in solemn fashion and prepared to note the Resurrection on Easter Sunday. In Warren, eight churches have scheduled sunrise services, Page B-2. In the United States, church-goers prepared for chilly weather in the northern states, Page A2. In Jerusalem, thousands of Christians made the annual Pilgrimage to the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, which houses Calvary, where Christ was crucified, Page One. Pope Paul in the traditional observance of Good Friday, stepped outside his prepared speech to lament the war in Southeast Asia, Page One.

WARREN COUNTY
The Bureau of Employment Security has announced this area's participation in the human resources development program, which will train people who have had trouble finding jobs because of their lack of experience. The program starts April 3 and is aimed at expanding services to the unemployed, Page B-1.

"Where the action is" will be the Warren National Guard Armory April 8. The Scouting in Action show that Saturday will have some 25 different booths demonstrating everything from scuba diving to mountain climbing, Page B1.

Warren County farmers received cost share payments totaling $46,283 in the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service program during 1966, Page B3.

THE NATION
The milk withholding action of the National Farmers Organization, which has had less impact on retail sales than the NFO would like, has been joined by labor organizations. The withholding is going into its second week and shows no signs of letting up. In Erie County, meanwhile, a milk truck was halted near Edinboro and its valves were opened, Page A-5.

Under the Supreme Court's guidelines, 34 of the 50 states face future reapportionment to redistrict under the "one man, one vote" concept set down in a test case. The changes include some states which already have redistricted, Page A3.

Employment has declined in New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania, a recent survey disclosed. Officials said the decline was due to normal seasonal layoffs, but it marks the second time this year that a downtrend in workers has been noted, Page A5.

The FBI turned up two bodies on Long Island and agents say it may be a graveyard for the Cosa Nostra. The skeletons were uncovered after a long, tedious investigation, Page A3.

THE WORLD
A team of scientists has announced plans to make a land trek over the North Pole, a feat which has not been tried since Admiral Perry did it in 1909. Among the men will be a CBS photographer. The television network plans a special show on the trip, Page A2.

In the Vietnam war, there were three developments reported. American officials in Saigon and Washington are not so sure now that the current pacification program is the answer to the problem of winning over the civilian populace in South Vietnam, Page One. Five members of a pacification team were killed and six wounded by Viet Cong guerrillas, Page One. American bombers again struck a thermal power plant which supplies North Vietnam with 17 per cent of its power, Page One.

SPORTS
Lew Alcindor and Mike Warren led the UCLA Bruins on a first half burst that was too much for the seventh ranked Houston Cougars last night in the semifinals of the NCAA tournament in Louisville. The Bruins won 73-58. In the opening game the Dayton Flyers upset fourth ranked North Carolina 76-62 behind a strong performance by Don May. He tossed in 34 markers. Dayton and UCLA will meet tonight to battle for the NCAA crown, Page A6.

Gay Brewer fired 10 birdies in a round of 64 in the second 18 holes of the Pensacola Open golf tournament yesterday. Brewer finished the second day with a total of 14-under par, 150. The cutoff point for the golfers was 141 or three under par. Brewer holds a two-stroke lead over Ron Cerrudo and Homer Blancas, a pair of young pros, Page A7.

The federal government contended yesterday that Cassius Clay could not make an appeal to avoid the draft until his April 11 induction date. Federal attorneys filed a motion to oppose an appeal that Clay has already made. Clay has also filed for a temporary restraining order. He said that the draft would cause him "irreparable damage," Page A6.

LAMENTS ASIAN WAR

Pope Paul Retraces Christ's Last Steps

ROME (AP) — Pope Paul VI carried a cross in a mournful Good Friday procession from the Roman Colosseum to commemorate Christ's journey to Calvary and climaxed the ceremony with an unexpected lament over conflicts in Asia.
Departing from a prepared text that dealt exclusively with the meaning of Christ's death, the Pope last night told tens of thousands of persons massed around the ruins of pagan Rome that menacing events are occurring around the world.
He said indications were reaching him "of conflict, of hates, of danger, especially in that painful and crucial point which the Far East has become."
Only then did he begin reading the prepared text. Observers saw his words as reflecting renewed fears over developments in the Vietnam war and in China's internal conflict.
The address came at the end of the penitential Way-of-the-Cross procession through the Colosseum to the ancient Temple of Venus, from whose time-worn apse shone a huge cross composed of flickering candles.
Pilgrims and tourists gathered outside the huge stone arena once stained by the blood of Christian martyrs as the procession slowly made its way to 14 prayer stations.
Three youths walked a few steps in front of the pontiff in the torchlight procession, two carrying large candles and the third a cross.
As the procession neared the 12th station, the one that marks Christ's death, the 69-year-old Pope took the slender, 6-foot-high wooden cross from the youth. The pontiff held the cross in front of him as he walked.
The Pope gently rested his forehead on the cross as priests read prayers at the 12th station.
The Pope, wearing a white cassock and red shoulder cape, stood in meditation at each of the 14 spots as others narrated Gospel episodes of Christ's walk to the Cross. A choir sang.
The procession took the Pope, cardinals, bishops, papal aides and other prelates through the Colosseum, part way around the outside of it and up steps to the ruins of the huge pagan Temple of Venus.
Adding to the traditional sadness of the day was the death of a Curia cardinal, Francesco Bracci. He died at his home in Rome at the age of 87.
Pope Paul went to the cardinal's residence to pray at his deathbed.
In an address after the procession, the Pope spoke of modern man's disdain for sacrifice.
He said those who ignore the Gospel's account of Christ's suffering miss the Gospel's central point.
"A tendency is diffused to keep closed the pages of the Gospel that document the tragic epilogue of Jesus' brief temporal life," he said. "They are disturbing pages."
"One would want a Gospel more serene, more easy, more comfortable, more conforming to the needs of the modern world," he said.

Airplanes Attack North Power Plant

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
SAIGON — United States Navy fighter-bombers attacked the Thai Nguyen thermal power plant in North Vietnam early yesterday morning for the second time, an American military spokesman reported.
The plant, 39 miles northwest of Hanoi, had a capacity of 24,000 kilowatts and provided 17 per cent of North Vietnam's electrical power before it was first attacked by U.S. planes last Sunday, March 19.
It is located within the 2.5 square mile complex that also contains the Thai Nguyen iron and steel mill. American planes hit the iron and steel facilities on March 10 in their first raid on North Vietnamese heavy industry.
The spokesman said that A-6 Intruders from the U.S. carriers Enterprise and Kitty Hawk bombed the plant.
The intensity of the attack was not made clear, but the spokesman said, "I wouldn't describe it as a heavy strike."
The U.S. has not disclosed the extent of damage done to the iron and steel facilities or to the power plant in the earlier raid.
The daily military communiqué issued last evening had this terse comment: "Pilots reported satisfactory systems deliveries, but (bad) weather and darkness precluded bomb damage assessment."
An Air Force pilot who has flown over the Thai Nguyen industrial complex said it is heavily defended by "the whole family of North Vietnamese anti-aircraft weapons."
Intelligence sources said the North Vietnamese had plans to increase the capacity of the Thai Nguyen plant to 36,000 kilowatts.
Altogether, U.S. Navy, Air Force and Marine pilots flew 80 multiplane missions in North Vietnam Thursday.
Their targets, in addition to the power plant, included a surface-to-air missile site, highways, railroads, bridges, small craft and troop centers in the vicinity of Haiphong, the major North Vietnamese port, and the southern portion of the country.
In South Vietnam, U.S. Marines operating in the foothills south of the Phuong River, about 360 miles northeast of Saigon, reported having killed 61 enemy soldiers Thursday afternoon.

PAUSE FOR REFLECTION

Desiderata: Code for Living

(Editor's Note: On this Easter weekend, which commemorates the Resurrection of Christ, is a time for spiritual reflection. One man, unknown in history, compiled a set of standards for living which he called "Desiderata;" it translates as "The Essentials." It was found in Old Saint Paul's Church in Baltimore in 1692 and is quoted here in its entirety.)
Go placidly amid the noise and haste, and remember what peace there may be in silence.
As far as possible without surrender be on good terms with all persons. Speak your truth quietly and clearly; and listen to others, even the dull and ignorant; they too have their story.
Avoid loud and aggressive persons; they are vexatious to the spirit. If you compare yourself with others, you may become vain and bitter; for always there will be greater and lesser persons than yourself. Enjoy your achievements as well as your plans.
Keep interested in your own career, however humble; it is a real possession in the changing fortunes of time. Exercise caution in your business affairs; for the world is full of trickery. But let this not blind you to what virtue there is; many persons strive for high ideals; and everywhere life is full of heroism.
Be yourself. Especially, do not feign affection. Neither be cynical about love; for in the face of all aridity and disenchantment it is perennial as the grass.
Take kindly the counsel of the years, gracefully surrendering the things of youth. Nurture strength of spirit to shield you in sudden misfortune. But do not distress yourself with imaginings. Many fears are born of fatigue and loneliness. Beyond a wholesome discipline, be gentle with yourself.
You are a child of the universe, no less than the trees and the stars; you have a right to be here, and whether or not it is clear to you, no doubt the universe is unfolding as it should.
Therefore be at peace with God, whatever you conceive Him to be, and whatever your labors and aspirations, in the noisy confusion of life keep pace with your soul.
With all its sham, drudgery and broken dreams, it is still a beautiful world. Be careful. Strive to be happy.

Jerusalem Pilgrimage Brings Thousands To Crucifixion Site

(c) N. Y. Times News Service
JERUSALEM, Jordan—Light showers followed thousands of pilgrims yesterday as they trudged along the Way of the Cross.
The Via Dolorosa in the Old City of Jerusalem is revered as the path Jesus followed on his last journey from condemnation to Crucifixion.
On this Good Friday, the route was traced by the devout as it has been since the Middle Ages.
Tourists mingled in the jostling procession through narrow lanes teeming with merchants, many of whom look upon the ceremony more as a disruption than an attraction.
The cold rain made some of the steeper lanes slippery with rivulets of water.
Large crosses, many almost as wide as the tiny cobbled streets, were carried from the courtyard of a local school, said to be the site where Jesus was condemned, to the Church of the Holy Sepulchre.
It was there, revered as the site of Calvary, where Jesus was crucified and buried.
The mournful occasion recalled yesterday is followed Easter morning by joyous rites celebrating Christ's Resurrection.
The somber procession along the 14 stations to the cross recalled incidents connected with this final journey of the Christian savior. Pilgrims knelt and prayed, often under the leadership of a priest carrying a megaphone, as they reached various stations—an arch marking the spot where Jesus received his cross, a chapel where he fell for the first time and the place where he told the women of Jerusalem, "Weep not for me."
The last five stations are in the church, a huge edifice shared by Christian sects and slowly undergoing badly needed repair.
Policemen and soldiers at the church entrance worked furiously to regulate traffic, making sure that the structure cluttered with supporting rods and thousands of worshippers did not have too many of the huge processional crosses inside at one time.
For some pilgrims, those crossing from Israel, it was a day of repeated drenchings. A two-hour wait at the Mandelbaum Gate had provided a one time.

THE EMPTY CHURCH
Easter, 1967, will find this church empty while others around Warren and the rest of the world are filled with worshippers observing the day of the Resurrection of Christ. This is the former EUB Church on Third avenue, emptied last year when the EUB congregation merged with Salem EUB Church. The building is now the property of Warren borough. The spirit of Easter, as set forth in the Bible, goes beyond churches, though. It is within mankind and man's relation to the Savior, who died for man's sins and was resurrected. (Photo by Mahan)

Viet Cong Destroys Pacification Team

SAIGON (AP) — Violent deaths swung attention yesterday to "the other war," the joint effort by the Saigon government and the United States to pacify the countryside and improve the lot of South Vietnamese civilians.
Communist terrorists surprised a team of the government's pacification workers sleeping in a hamlet school 12 miles southwest of Saigon Thursday night and sprayed them with gunfire. They killed five and wounded six.
The campaign to safeguard the people and improve their social and economic conditions parallels allied military operations. This other war is officially called the pacification and revolutionary development program.
President Johnson referred to it at the Guam conference Monday as "country building" and said it was beginning to take effect.
The school house shootings were the latest in a series of terrorist attacks against various members of 59-man teams the government has sent into hamlets throughout the republic with the idea of winning hearts and minds of peasants through instruction about their government and ways to improve their standard of living.
There are more than 400 of these teams.
All told 47 of the pacification workers have been killed, 52 wounded and 8 kidnaped in the last six weeks.

OBITUARIES

DEATHS IN THE NATION

HARRISBURG (AP) — Donald M. Cresswell, 75, of Dauphin widely known as a public relations specialist in state government and professional organizations, died yesterday.

Cresswell had been a patient for several weeks at Harrisburg Hospital, where his death occurred.

Cresswell retired in 1958 as public information officer of the State Agriculture Department, after a career of 32 years in state government.

Even in retirement, he continued to supervise the news room at Harrisburg's mammoth Farm Show each January. He also did other free lance work in retirement, but missed the Farm Show this year because of his fatal illness.

Cresswell was a native of Huntingdon County, and began his career as a reporter for the Harrisburg Patriot in 1911.

He said the foremost pain was voluntary, "that is, sacrifice."

"What would a Gospel be," he continued, "that is, a Christianity, without the pain, without the sacrifice of Jesus? It would be Christianity without redemption, without salvation."

"To carry the Cross. A great thing, a great thing, dearest children. It means face life with courage, without slackness and without cowardice."

The Pope's Good Friday activities are the most strenuous in his schedule that ends Easter Sunday.

In his Easter message, Pope Paul will announce that he has prepared an encyclical on social justice. The encyclical, the fifth of Pope Paul's reign and a major papal document, will be issued Tuesday, the Vatican said.

The Pope wore no ornaments of the papal office as a sign of mourning to commemorate the death of Christ in a solemn Good Friday service in a Rome basilica.

The pontiff wore no ring or bishop's miter. There was no canopy over his throne at the main altar of the Basilica of St. Mary Major. Purple veiled statues and crucifixes. No bells were rung.

More than 5,000 persons prayed with him on this day that Roman Catholicism marks as the most sorrowful of the year. Twelve cardinals took part in the service. Foreign diplomats assigned to the Vatican knelt near the altar.

Collegians Stage Riot in Florida

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla.

(AP) — A horde of unshowered college students here for the Easter holidays went on a rampage yesterday, looting delivery trucks, attacking a crowded bus and battling police with a barrage of plundered fruit.

Itching for action after a morning of sun, sand and beer, thousands of students poured off the beaches onto the main thoroughfare.

Girls in sweatsuits and bikinis cheered while muscular fraternity men, with bleached hair and peeling noses picked up a pile of oranges, lemons and back and drove down the palm-lined street.

No one was hurt seriously and steel-helmeted riot squads from four area police departments pushed the students back onto the white beaches within an hour. An estimated 30 students were arrested.

All police leaves were canceled and paddy wagons prowled the area. Inside were the helmeted police and their bulge bags.

The riot began slowly before a scheduled peace march up Las Olas Boulevard. The march, protesting the war in Vietnam, was canceled.

Arctic Expedition Recreates North Pole Visit of 1909

NEW YORK (AP) — A 10-man private expedition plans to leave today on what it hopes will be the first successful trek over the ice to the North Pole since Adm. Robert E. Peary in 1909.

The expedition will set out by snowmobile across the frozen Arctic Sea from a base camp at Eureka, on Ellesmere Island in Canada's Northwest Territories, for the North Pole, 800 miles away.

Heading the six-week journey is Ralph S. Plaisted, a St. Paul, Minn., insurance man whose hobby is cold-country exploration.

Using an array of instruments, Plaisted and a scientific crew hope to pinpoint for the first time the exact location of the magnetic North Pole.

They will gather other scientific data and plant a radar signaling device as a guide for U.S. nuclear submarines. At least two submarines, the Nautilus and the Skate, have crossed the polar region under the ice.

The trip plan was born a year ago during a discussion of the Peary expedition between Plaisted, 38, and Dr. Arthur Aufderheide, 44, a Duluth, Minn., pathologist and Arctic traveler.

Plaisted set to work lining up financial support, equipment and supplies. Eight others signed up to make the trek, and Collins Radio and the Columbia Broadcasting System became cosponsors of the venture, incorporated as the Plaisted Polar Expedition.

For months the explorers practiced with snowmobiles and supply toboggans on frozen lakes in Minnesota, built igloos and simulated emergencies. All the while, supplies piled up in the Plaisted home.

Clothing to insulate the explorers against the 60-degrees-below-zero weather took $15,000. A Swiss surveying instrument to compute the location of the magnetic pole cost $4,000.

Other members are Donald Powellek, 39, of St. Paul, an electronics engineer, assistant director of the expedition; Dr. Blair D. Woolsey, 36, of White Bear Lake, Minn., a dentist and navigation specialist; Gerald R. Pitzil, 33, of St. Paul, a geography instructor; Walter Pederson, 39, of St. Cloud, Minn., a snowmobile dealer; John Austad, 35, of Edmonton, Alberta, Canadian Royal Air Force; Robert Clemens, 35, of New York, a photographer for CBS; Welland Phipps, 45, of Resolute, Northwest Territories, an Arctic pilot; and R. L. Lillestrand, Edina, Minn., an aerospace researcher.

Dr. Gerald Church, from Two Harbors, Minn., will be the doctor at the base camp.

A support airplane will make trips to the group on the ice, and constant radio contact will be maintained. CBS plans a television film report of the expedition.

Cold Harasses Sunrise Services

NEW YORK (AP) — On mountaintops, in park grottoes, in tiny churches and huge auditoriums, Americans will celebrate Christ's resurrection in sunrise services tomorrow—and many will brave chill winds to do so.

The fashion parades along the avenues of many cities — the biggest one on New York's Fifth Avenue — will go on despite the likely discomforts of the earliest Easter in 16 years, an unusually long winter, and a forecast of rain over most of the country.

Many of the sunrise services follow long tradition, the Moravian service in Winston-Salem, N.C., the 207th such service in a church built in 1759.

But others will bring a new ecumenical spirit to the Easter observance.

In Las Vegas, Nev., Catholics, Protestants and Mormons will join for the first time in a huge sunrise service at the Las Vegas Convention Center, with music by a 200-voice choir and an orchestra led by Antonio Morelli, an entertainer from the gambling city's famed "Strip."

On Oklahoma's Wichita Mountains, they will start arriving late Saturday night with blankets and bottles of hot drinks. A program of religious music will begin at midnight and at 2 a.m., an expected 50,000 persons will watch a 55-scene spectacle with a cast of 500.

An Easter drama also will be acted out by young people in a suburb of Cincinnati — in a cemetery area known as the "Garden of the Rugged Cross" complete with cave, rock and cross.

Pittsburgh's Civic Arena, the athletic field at Ft. Riley, Kan., the steps of the California State Capitol at Sacramento, the Grand Canyon, Mirror Lake in Yosemite National Park, the Hollywood Bowl in Los Angeles, and the Red Rocks amphitheater west of Denver are among the man made or natural settings for Easter worship.

At Ridge, N.J., the invitation to a service in the outdoor Cathedral of the Pines spelled out what was implicit in all the dawn celebrations:

"Visitors are urged to dress warmly."

Eight Educators Die in Air Crash

SAIGON (AP) — A plane crash in a monsoon storm has wiped out a team of eight American educators who were surveying South Vietnam's high school and college problems on a tour sponsored by the U.S. Agency for International Development.

The group, largely Midwesterners, died with the pilot when their twin-engine Air America plane smashed into a rain-veiled mountain north of Da Nang on Thursday.

A U.S. spokesman announced yesterday the tragic end of the educational research mission, undertaken in January, which was to have ended in mid-April.

Messages to relatives and schools in the United States identified the victims as:

Dr. James Albertson, 41, president of Wisconsin State University's Stevens Point branch, who headed the team.

Dr. Harry F. Bangsberg, 39, president of Bemidji (Minn.) State College.

Dr. A. Donald Beattie, 45, dean of the School of Business and Economics at Wisconsin State University's Whitewater branch.

There was no immediate identification of the pilot.

The Air America line is a civilian company. It operates in South Vietnam under charter to the U.S. mission.

Soviets Landed Life on Mars, Scientists Say

(c) N. Y. Times News Service

NEW YORK — A group of American scientists, including some concerned with the planning of planetary exploration, has concluded that Soviet spacecraft have probably landed living organisms inadvertently on Mars and Venus.

They argue not so much that the Soviet Union has been at fault as that American doctrine in sterilizing spacecraft has been needlessly stringent.

The American scientists reason that it is unlikely that earth-type organisms could proliferate on either Mars or Venus. The American practice of baking electronic components and rocket fuel destined for planetary missions, they say, has put this country at a disadvantage in timeliness, reliability and cost.

Wayward Dog Brings Owner 5 Days in Jail

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) —

John W. Shaw of Columbia, R.D. 1 in Lancaster County decided to take five days in jail rather than pay a $20 fine because his dog ran across a neighbor's lawn.

Shaw's wife said yesterday her husband was taking the jail term to show his displeasure with the law in the case. She said their dog broke loose from his leash to chase a cat out of the yard. The neighbor prosecuted and Shaw was convicted under a county law against dogs running loose.

Independence Going To Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — The American cruise ship Independence will visit the Soviet Black Sea port of Odessa April 3-4, the U.S. Embassy said yesterday.

The ship's owners, the American Export-Isbrandtsen Line, say this will be the first visit of a U.S. cruise ship to a Soviet port since before World War II, the embassy reported.

Mafia Graveyard Found by FBI

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI said yesterday it has found two bodies in what could be a gangland dumping ground for Cosa Nostra victims in central New Jersey.

Agents dug up the skeletal remains of Angelo Sonnessa and Kenneth Later on the site of an abandoned illegal distillery five miles northwest of Lakewood, N.J.

Vandalism Hits Junior High School

JAMESTOWN — Police are still without clues as to who caused thousands of dollars worth of damage early yesterday morning at Jefferson Junior High School, located on the city's south side.

Police detectives have estimated the vandals have spent four hours smashing over 75 windows, breaking equipment in the science and art rooms, destroying hundreds of books and papers throughout the corridor, overturning desks and chairs, and wrecking the servicing area of the school's cafeteria.

Jamestown School Superintendent Dr. Harold O'Neal, described the incident as "the most vicious vandalism ever seen in the city of Jamestown."

Maintenance crews under the direction of John Kulig will be on the job this weekend cleaning up the debris in preparation for resumption of classes Tuesday morning following the Easter recess.

In the meantime an intensive investigation into the wild foray continues with city detective Hans F. Rosengren leading the investigation.

Local Woman Injured in Auto Accident

A local woman was injured slightly late yesterday morning in a rear end collision at the intersection of Pennsylvania ave. West and Second ave.

Borough police reported that a car being driven by Guy Bliss, 61, of Ohio st., James City, struck the rear of an auto operated by Georgia S. Coyle, 43, of Yankee Bush Hill Farm Box 433. Police reported Bliss had taken his eyes off the road to look at a clock along the street.

Mrs. Coyle complained of pains after the accident and was later taken by her husband to Warren General Hospital where she was admitted.

Sgt. Roger L. Thelin estimated damage at $50 to the Coyle auto and $15 to the Bliss car.

Most States Will Face Reapportions

WASHINGTON (AP) — At least 34 of the 50 states may have to reshape their congressional districts by 1972, including most of the states which have redistricted recently to equalize districts under Supreme Court rulings.

All but three of the states which probably will be able to keep the same districts have two or fewer House members.

At least 16 states stand to gain or lose House seats by the 1970 census, according to present projections, and half of these have recently reapportioned.

In addition, another 16 states would be forced to reapportion if Congress passes a bill, approved this week by a House Judiciary subcommittee, to restrict states to a 10 per cent population deviation between the largest and smallest districts.

Of these, eight have reapportioned in order to conform with the Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote decision, which was applied to congressional districts in a 1963 Georgia case.

Only four of the 35 states with more than two House members stand to keep the same size House delegation and already fall within the 10 per cent limit. They are Arkansas, Kentucky and Maryland, which recently have reapportioned, and Mississippi which didn't need to.

Of the states with two House members, Hawaii and New Mexico would be forced by the

New Building

Rex Chainbelt Inc., Milwaukee-based diversified manufacturing company will occupy a new building in Philadelphia Industrial Park as the result of a $500,000 transaction negotiated by Binswanger Corp. in cooperation with the Philadelphia Industrial Development Corp. The Milwaukee firm will become the 30th to occupy a plant in the 650-acre "community of industries" being developed on four tracts surrounding the North Philadelphia airport. Construction will begin soon on the 23,000 square foot one-story building.

An FBI spokesman said agents still are digging in the area and "we hope to find more bodies."

In a statement, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said discovery of the burial site followed a two-year investigation. He said the investigation "specifically concerned a number of individuals who had disappeared, allegedly as a result of having incurred the disfavor of La Cosa Nostra officials or leaders as far back as 1900, and who are thought to be buried on these sites."

FBI officials would not say what led them to the flat, coastal chicken-farming area of central New Jersey. The bureau also refused to say how the remains were identified, or what was the cause of death.

The FBI said Sonnessa was a business partner of the late Joseph Vecchio in the All State Asphalt Co., a contracting firm at Nutley, about 15 miles west of New York City. Vecchio was indicted in May 1960 with 29 others alleged to be the prime distributing organization for heroin in the United States.

The bureau said Sonnessa who disappeared in September 1961, "had allegedly gained the disfavor of an identified member of La Cosa Nostra who is presently serving a term in a federal penitentiary on a narcotics violation." The FBI would not further identify this person.

Later was identified as a 51-year-old stockbroker who disappeared from his midtown Manhattan home in April 1963. An FBI spokesman declined to say that if any link had been established between Later and Cosa Nostra.

It is known, however, that the Cosa Nostra crime syndicate has gained control over some brokerage houses and, with millions of dollars at its command, has the power to manipulate the price of shares on stock exchanges.

Hoover has defined Cosa Nostra as "the largest organization of the criminal underworld in this country, very closely organized and strictly disciplined. They have committed almost every crime under the sun..."

FORMER JFK AIDE

Theodore Sorenson Visits Jamestown

JAMESTOWN — Theodore C. Sorenson, special counsel to the late President Kennedy will be the principal speaker at the annual Robert H. Jackson dinner, to be held at 7 p.m. on April 8, 1967 at Mar Mar Restaurant on Route 17, near Rayville.

The annual dinner which is being sponsored by Chautauqua County Democratic Committee honors the late Robert H. Jackson, a native of Frewsburg who practiced law in Jamestown for many years.

In later years, he became Attorney General for the United States and still later a justice of the U.S. Supreme Court. General chairman for the dinner are Albert H. Harrison of Jamestown and Mrs. Josephine Westling of Fredonia, vice chairman for the county democratic committee. Assisting them will be Daniel R. Larson, chairman of the Jamestown Democratic City Committee and Thomas C. Nowicki, chairman of the Dunkirk, N.Y. city committee.

Sorenson, long associated with the Kennedy family, was recently appointed by Senator Robert F. Kennedy to lead a task force which will recommend ways for improving the image of the party in New York State.

The Kennedy family purchased Hickory Hill Mansion in McLean, Va., from the estate of Justice Jackson who lived there during his tenure in Washington. President Kennedy lived there while he was a senator and Sen. Robert Kennedy occupies the residence now.

Company 'Repossesses' Five-Year-Old Daughter

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Blonde Daisy Ann Thompson, 5, whose mother pinned a desperate note to her coat and sent her to a loan company which garnished the family paycheck, may spend Easter with a great aunt.

Miss Martha Marsh, a social worker with Metropolitan Juvenile Court, said she hopes to place Daisy Ann with Beatrice Clements so the girl can live with her family pending final action on the case. Mrs. Clements is an aunt of the girl's divorced mother, Wanda Lee Thompson, 27.

For Daisy Ann, it all began Thursday when her mother placed her in a taxicab and instructed the driver to deliver her to the Century Finance Co. in downtown Nashville. She pinned this note to her:

"Here is my baby. Since you took my check, you can take care of her 'till I'm able to."

Spy Hunt Moves To Greece, Cyprus

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — The hunt for members of a Soviet ring spying on Atlantic alliance bases swung from Italy to Greece and Cyprus yesterday. Three persons were reported arrested and a Soviet diplomat was expelled from Cyprus.

Reliable sources said one person had been arrested by Greek counterintelligence agents, but there was no official confirmation. An Athens newspaper reported that officers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization had arrived Thursday night to help track down leads on the spy ring.

In Cyprus, the government confirmed that two Cypriots had been picked up there, and it was believed they were part of the espionage network.

In addition, authoritative sources in the Cypriot capital of Nicosia said a Soviet diplomat and an employee of the Soviet airline Aeroflot had been deported for spying on NATO facilities on the Mediterranean island.

The case broke in Turin, Italy, with the arrest of Giorgio Rinaldi, a parachutist, his wife, and their chauffeur, Armando Girard. They were charged Wednesday with spying for the Soviet Union.

In Lausanne, Swiss police said they had evidence the spy ring was active in Switzerland, and a spokesman said, "The possibility of arrests cannot be excluded."

Neither Cyprus nor Switzerland is a member of NATO, but Greece is.

A Soviet Embassy aide in Rome, Yuri Pavlenko, had left hurriedly for home two days ago amid reports that Italy had expelled him. Italian counterintelligence sources linked him with the Rinaldis.

In Turin, police searching Rinaldi's home and the antique shop he operated reported turning up microphotographed materials, printed pages reduced on film to a dot the size of a period.

Red Ship Captain Not Landed

KODIAK, Alaska (AP)—A Soviet trawler seized for violating the U.S. exclusive 12-mile fisheries zone was anchored just outside the harbor of this Alaskan fishing community yesterday afternoon and officials decided not to land its skipper in order to avoid any possible incidents.

A crowd estimated at 500 lined the wharf under the watchful eyes of Coast Guardsmen armed with billyclubs. Chief of Police Jack Rhines also had his force on hand. There were no incidents on shore.

Leonid M. Kushchenko, skipper of the Soviet vessel, and Dimitry Kavaykin, the Soviet fleet commander's first mate, will be brought ashore at 5:30 a.m. Saturday and flown immediately to Anchorage for arraignment.

The trawler, the SRTM 8-547, was seized off the Shumagin Islands on Wednesday and taken under tow by the cutter Storin when the Russians refused to come into port under their own power.

At a noon rendezvous off Cape Chirikof yesterday Kushchenko was given permission to proceed the 20 miles to Kodiak under his own power. The two vessels arrived shortly after 4 p.m.

The 178-foot trawler, its prize crew still aboard, anchored just off the starboard side of the Storin in Cape St. Paul about two miles from here. Both were visible from high ground.

Kushchenko and Kavaykin were aboard the Storin as guests of Cmdr. George W. Hardy Jr.

Ducks That Laid The Golden Egg

SENECA, Calif. (AP) — The Wayne Woodward ducks escaped their pen and started swimming in a nearby pond. Fearful that coyotes might get them, Mrs. Woodward started throwing rocks at them to drive them back in the pen. She took a look at one rock and didn't throw it.

Since she and her husband operate a gold mine a few miles from this Plumas County town, Mrs. Woodward is a good judge of gold.

She sold the gold in the rock for $70.

Big Cities Protest Tax Break

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Pennsylvania League of Cities contended yesterday that local governments stood to lose millions in revenue from a Shaffer Administration proposal aimed at exempting the low-income area from property taxes.

Mayor George S. Smith of Easton, league president, recommended that the administration budget funds to reimburse municipalities and school districts for lost revenue if the proposal becomes law.

At the same time, Smith complained that his organization had been unable to find anyone in the administration who had any information as to the effect of such a law.

"No one can tell us what formula will be used, how the program will be administered, how many people will be affected, how much it will cost, or who will pay for it," Smith said.

Smith also reported that the Pennsylvania Local Government Conference, representing cities, boroughs, townships, counties, school districts and authorities, would meet with Gov. Shaffer to discuss the proposal.

Two Jamestown Men Admitted After Accident

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. — A one-car accident at the intersection of Forest ave. and Glendale ave. shortly before 6 p.m. yesterday sent two Jamestown area men to Jamestown General Hospital.

Admitted to the hospital were the driver, Harold W. Johnson, 37, of 408 S. Main st., Jamestown, who had several deep facial cuts, and David A. Miller, 22, of RD 3, Jamestown, a passenger in the vehicle who was admitted with a broken thigh.

Treated and released at the hospital was a second passenger, Ronald B. Stone, 34, of 838 Forest ave.

Investigating officers were Thomas Trusso and Robert Dew.

Sheffield Sets Easter Egg Hunt

Youngsters in the Sheffield area who are 12-years-of-age or younger will be participating today in the annual Easter-egg hunt at Sheffield playground.

Sheffield Lions Club announced last night that the affair will be held at 2 p.m. at the community playground. Earlier this week the event had been threatened with snow flurries but a spokesman reported that the area is in a go condition.

The local merchants worked with the Lions Club in organizing the gathering.

'Open Covenants . . .'

"I'm going to insist that every board, every agency, open its meeting to the press."

So declared Governor David Cargo of New Mexico in addressing a meeting of the New Mexico Press Association.

Gov. Cargo further commented that the state seldom gets "old-style interpretative reporting. Most of the news is standard."

He hit the nail on the head when he said "most of the news is standard."

The old-style reporting surely has been kicked in the face by the public relations departments and their voluminous releases. The average paper receives reams upon reams of it daily--so much that one would not need to move from his desk to fill a paper if he were content entirely with propagandized releases. And fully 50 per cent, or more, is propaganda trash, which usually reaches the circular file for keeps.

"I'm interested in safeguarding the press," Governor Cargo added. "The best policy is an open policy. If we conduct a glass-house administration, we'll have less to worry about than if we conduct a closed one."

The press is--and always has been--opposed to closed public meetings. There are times when personalities enter discussions when publicity might be considered inadvisable and possibly harmful. Any reporter recognizes this possibility and when asked will usually heed the request of any presiding officer.

Public business is just that--PUBLIC business--and when it is treated privately, mistrust and suspicion are inevitable.

Emulation of Governor Cargo of New Mexico in treatment of the public and press will give the people the account of their representatives' actions to which they are entitled and will elevate those representatives to the pivotal place where they should be in the eyes of the people who elected and placed them there.

HARATINE

Proposes Insurance Review

HARRISBURG--When he named David O. Maxwell to succeed Audrey Kelly as Insurance Commissioner in January, Governor Shafer may have been clearing the decks for an impressive overhaul of Pennsylvania's insurance laws--and the operations of the insurance department, and a look at the total insurance picture in the State.

Some piercing facts will come under the governor's scrutiny as he prepares his legislative recommendations. One is Pennsylvania's system for keeping tabs on new "high-risk" companies. Under present procedures for example, five such companies which folded since 1964 accumulated 4,200 claims totalling $13,000,000--before the boom was lowered. Insurance department investigators eventually discovered that all five, taken together, had assets of $55,000. One company, with outstanding claims of $2,520,000, had $4,700 in total assets.

As he studies ways of improving controls over the insurance industry, Governor Shafer will also get this comparison between Pennsylvania and New York State: To regulate 736 licensed insurance companies, New York has 681 employees, including 342 examiners; to regulate 1,151 companies, Pennsylvania has 185 employees of which only 38 are examiners.

The Governor will also hear this story about a Chicago promoter: Having lost his Illinois license, the promoter opened shop in Pennsylvania. While information about his Illinois exploits gathered dust in files of the Insurance Department, he formed two successive Pennsylvania companies--each of which became insolvent within a period of two years.

That is a sampling of information accumulated by a House committee activated during 1965--when Democrats were in control. On its strength, more than 36 insurance bills have already been dumped into the House hopper, most with Democratic sponsorship. None involves rates, or the rate-making process. Yet if Commissioner Maxwell's recent delay of rate increases for hospitalization plans is any indication, the rate-making process also may be revised. Under present law, requests for rate changes need not be made public until a change becomes effective.

The Democrats' approach, as it appears to be developing, is toward legislation that will--as Representative Eugene Gelfand, a Philadelphia lawyer puts it--"eliminate Pennsylvania as a happy hunting ground for unscrupulous insurance promoters."

For the moment, most Republicans are sitting in the wings on the insurance issue, possibly waiting for Gov. Shafer's insurance message. In the Senate, however, two bills already have bi-partisan sponsorship. One would ban interlocking insurance company directorates. A second would forbid discrimination against insured persons because of their age alone.

In the House, the insurance proposals are exceedingly more convulsive. New companies would have to have $1 million in assets, or $1.75 million if engaged in automobile liability; people who served as officers and directors of a defunct company would be barred from similar positions for five years; companies would be subject to bi-annual "surprise" examinations and audits for their first five years in business.

There is no shortage of knowledgeable insurance people at work in and around government in this Capital City. The Legislature--although its numbers are no match for the lawyers' bloc--has 19 members engaged in the insurance business, 15 of them in the House. At the Governor's elbow sits Joseph J. Kelly who made the jump to Secretary to the Governor from a desk in the State Chamber of Commerce where he served as secretary of that organization's Insurance Committee.

Sitting by, watching and waiting, is an insurance lobby of 15 distinct organizations, a tribe that doubtless will increase when debate on insurance legislation moves into high gear.

Here lies the explanation of Prime Minister Kosygin and U Thant's statements and of the President's strange behavior in ignoring them both.

Kosygin and U Thant brought us the assurance that our 1955 terms-of-suspension for an unconditional parley--would now be accepted by Hanoi. Our response was to ignore the assurances because what they were promising us was no longer acceptable to us.

There is, therefore, a deadlock in the maneuvering for a negotiated settlement. We have been told that we can get to day what we wanted in 1965. We cannot get what we are now asking, not yet at least, and so the war goes on with no end in sight.

Ban Lifted For Americans

(Copyright, 1967, by Bell-McClure Syndicate) WASHINGTON--The hard-boiled, frequently critical Advisory Commission on U.S. Information has just come out with a vitally important report reversing itself on the use of propaganda information in the United States.

It has decided that the materials, movies, programs of the U.S. Information Agency are so good that the American people should be permitted to see and read the same information which is sent to the people of Russia, Africa, China and the rest of the world.

Hitherto, this information was banned from the American public by law--and still is. The American people are not permitted to see the film on the life of John F. Kennedy or other material--unless Congress passes a special act giving permission.

This ban, called Public Law 402, was passed because of Congressional fear that the American public might be "propagandized" by the U.S. government. Some of the news agencies, AP, UPI, and some of the TV executives were also fearful of government competition.

So one of the jobs of the U.S. Advisory Commission on Information was to police this and make sure the law was obeyed. The commission is composed of hard-boiled executives: Palmer Hoyt, publisher of the Denver Post; Sigurd Larmon formerly of the Young and Rubicam advertising agency; Morris Novik of the AFL-CIO; and Frank Stanton, president of CBS.

They have now reversed themselves.

"The commission feels that after almost two decades the walls can come down," its members recommend. "The time has come when the vigilance of Congress and the press may be relied upon to provide sufficient safeguard against partisanship and the promulgation of a particular administration's point of view."

"The American taxpayer should no longer be prohibited from seeing and studying the product a government agency produces with public funds for overseas audiences."

The commission also pays tribute to the "dedicated work of USIA personnel at home and abroad" now under the direction of USIA Director Leonard Marks.

One of the six Senators on the Ethics Committee is Minnesota's able, maturely handsome Sen. Eugene McCarthy, a friend of Sen. Tom Dodd even though they were once competitors to be LBJ's Vice Presidential runningmate. During the recent Dodd hearings, newsmen at the press tables began clocking McCarthy's ho-hum performance. Here is their record:

MARCH 13--Sen. McCarthy listless during testimony of James Boyd, Dodd's ex-aid. Other five Senators attentive all morning. McCarthy working at papers on lap. 3 P.M., situation the same. 3:25, McCarthy now listening but looks sleepy. 3:30, McCarthy out of room. Returns at 3:35. Other five asking questions. 3:55, first McCarthy question. At 4 P.M., McCarthy goes out until 4:20, missing crucial part of third witness's testimony.

MARCH 14--10 A.M., hearings begin. 10:25, McCarthy arrives; begins work on same yellow sheets clearly not connected with hearing. 11, McCarthy listening off and on. 11:15, McCarthy still listening. Oops! Out of door. Back at 11:25. 11:45, again at work on other matters. Is McCarthy bored by all ethics or Dodd's ethics? 12:15, McCarthy still working at collection of papers on lap.

Lunch break. 2:30, McCarthy missing. 3:45, Stennis, Bennett, Cooper, Monroney and Pearson firing questions about Dodd's tangled finances. 5:10, end of session. McCarthy still no show.

The bored and kindly Senator from Minnesota continued on this schedule during the remainder of the Dodd hearings.

The circus brings out all sorts of people. At Ringling Brothers the other day were Internal Revenue Commissioner Sheldon Cohen, who took time off from collecting income taxes to escort his five children to "the greatest show on earth"; also one-circus artist Buchwald with his brood; plus Edward Bennett Williams, a good legal showman; plus a batch of grandchildren from the Washington Merry-Go-Round.

Rep. Jim Haley, D-Fla., only member of Congress who once managed Ringling Brothers, was not present. Present, however, was Pat Valdo who has been with the circus 65 years as a clown, juggler, tightwire walker, and now general director.

The Boisterous Buffoon Battalion, the Astonishing Acrobatic Accomplishments, the Peerless Perch Performers, and the Merry Masters of Mirth were just as entertaining as ever; and the 600-pound Siberian tiger, who rides on a horse's back, even more death-defying.

But the circus has changed a lot from the days when the U.S. Marine Corps used to study its unloading methods in order to perfect efficient beachhead landing in time of war.

The canvas, stakes, the center poles, quarter poles and wall poles are gone now, and the circus shows under roofs. But it still moves by train and has adopted the piggyback system of packing its Wonderful Wire Wizards, its Wild West Whoop-de-doo and all the nets, tightwires, costume trunks and other paraphernalia into trucks which are then rolled onto open-end railroad cars and telescoped inside.

It's still an amazing job of loading, packing and split-second timing as synchronized as catching a flying trapeze artist in mid-air.

The California Redwood

Because of the great age of old-growth California redwood stands, there is a popular belief that Sequoia sempervirens is a slow growing species.

It is easy to equate a great age with slow growth in a forest tree. In the case of redwood, though, second-growth trees can reach 90 per cent of the height of old-growth neighbors in less than a century.

The plain fact is that the coast redwood is one of the fastest growing trees in the world. And unlike most conifers, the redwood has the capacity to sprout from the stump after logging.

Within weeks after cutting, vigorous sprouts spring up to form a new forest among the stumps. But, protect an old-tree redwood until it has died standing, and its sprouting capacity will have died with it.

Even if all of the redwood forests in America disappeared, the species could still be found on five continents around the world.

Redwood cuttings and seeds were first brought to Europe scale-like leaves.

Of the two species, it is the redwood that is making the headlines today. There is much interest among preservationists in creating a Redwood National Park to preserve for all time large areas of old-growth redwoods.

If you have never stood among those giant trees and contemplated eternity, you have never found your true place in nature. It is a humbling experience.

The California redwood may now be found thriving in Algeria, Brazil, Burma, France, Mexico, Spain, Switzerland, and Uruguay. It has become truly an international tree.

Sometimes the word Sequoia is loosely used to identify the redwood. This can be very misleading because Sequoia is the generic name for two species--Sequoia gigantea, or bigtree, and Sequoia sempervirens, or redwood. The bigtree, sometimes called giant Sequoia, is native to the middle slopes of the Sierra Nevada in California. The redwood is confined to the Pacific Coast, within reach of the ocean fogs from Monterey County northward to the Oregon line. The foliage of the two species is strikingly different. The redwood has needle-like leaves; the giant Sequoia, or bigtree, has

Flaws Of Wondrous Woman

WASHINGTON--The great question running through every woman's magazine on the drug-store rack is: Can woman, as wonderful as she is, be even better?

The answer is yes, but the woman's magazines, probably because they are afraid of offending their readership, invariably sidestep those facets of womankind that most need improvement. Instead, they suggest that female excellence requires just a bit more attention to cosmetics, great books, refrigerator cleaners and flower pots. In fact, as every man knows, the case is more serious than this, and the truly serious feminine shortcomings not so easily dealt with.

Let us enumerate a few of the more serious defects that need repair.

First of all, women have an exasperating habit of pointing out that men cannot live without them. Why must they insist on constantly hammering away at this obvious truth? Men do not do it. Men instinctively sense that it would be atrocious taste to tell a woman, "We men may be pretty awful to live with, but women can't live without us." The mutual dependence of the sexes is one of the more pleasurable facts of life if taken for granted, but woman's habit of gloating about it when man is in an ulcerous mood often makes the bond of love feel like a dungeon chain.

What else? Well, women can never find their purses.

Also, women are usually late. The person who tells a man he is drinking too much is invariably a woman. When a man gets the last seat on a crowded bus, the person who boards at the next stop and takes a standing position beside his seat is also, invariably, a woman.

The person who makes small boys spend Saturday afternoons cleaning cellars is a woman. Women are unreliable. When the driver in front of you is driving like an imbecile and you want to purge the soul by cursing women drivers, it too often turns out that there is no woman driving the car ahead.

Women always cry at the wrong time. Why, for example, doesn't a woman cry when a man remembers her wedding anniversary? Remembering a wedding anniversary is a substantial feat for a man, and a few tears of gratitude would be entirely appropriate from the wife of the man who does it. Instead, women invariably wait for husbands to forget their anniversaries, and then cry.

Women care about hosts of perfectly uninteresting calendar dates--anniversaries, birthdays, Valentine's day, mother's day, father's day, children's day, uncle's day and so forth. They are also very fond of pay day.

Women have a distorted sense of values. They have difficulty deciding whether a trip to Antigua is better than a new rug.

When a man arrives from work and notices nothing unusual about the house, the person who confronts him and asks, "Do you notice anything?" is a woman. The person who is terrified is a man. That hideous question--"Do you notice anything?"--gives him gooseflesh.

What he is expected to notice may be something innocent--the hallway has been waxed, his wife has combed her hair--but it may just as often be a newly acquired Sevres vase in the living room or the luggage of Aunt Harriet, who has come to stay, sitting in the foyer. What explains this feminine weakness for springing surprises on man?

Man doesn't walk into the house and ask, "Do you notice anything?" No. He comes in and says, right out loud, "Well, I got a haircut today." He assumes that his wife won't notice his freshly trimmed sideburns, and he has no desire to make her feel bad by dramatizing her failure to notice them. Why does woman feel it necessary to taunt man about his inability to notice a freshly waxed hallway? More important, why does she insist upon springing Sevres vases and Chippendale sofas like thunderclaps?

Why will she cry if man resents the surprise too noisily? Why will she tax him with being the unsensitive sort of spirit that thrives on the World Series and James Bond? Why will she compel him to respond that she is the sort of person who makes small boys spend Saturday afternoons cleaning cellars and who cannot even shed him a tear when he remembers her anniversary?

Why will she insist on reminding him rather nastily that men cannot live without women? Why will she, as the evening proceeds from inevitability to inevitability, conclude it by telling him he is drinking too much? We realize, of course, why he will be drinking too much. It will be because he knows that woman, wonderful as she is, remains still an inch short of perfection and because he knows, too, that her conscience needs to pay for the Chippendale sofa by forgiving him one hangover.

Incomplete Disclosure

The exchange of letters between President Johnson and Ho Chi Minh does not clear up the confusion and contradictions in the public mind about what happened at the time of the Tet truce in early February. The letters merely confirm what everyone already knows.

The United States is prepared to suspend the bombing of North Vietnam if the President is "assured that infiltration into South Vietnam by land and sea has stopped."

The President, which was not known before, offered also to stop "further augmentation of U.S. forces in South Vietnam." But, of course, he did not propose to stop supplying them by sea.

Ho Chi Minh's reply was to refuse to pay for the suspension of the bombing by stopping the infiltration, which includes the supplying of his troops in South Vietnam.

What is not clarified by the publication of these letters is the real point at issue between the President and Prime Minister Alexei Kosygin and U.N. Secretary General U Thant. The point at issue is whether the President in 1967 has rejected an offer to negotiate which agrees with what he was asking for in 1965 and early 1966.

It is clear, I think, that the President's former position was that he would suspend the bombing in return for an unconditional parley. Thus, on Jan. 31, 1966, at the end of the 37-day bombing pause, Secretary of State Dean Rusk said that bombing would not have been resumed "if Hanoi would reciprocate by making a serious contribution toward peace." He said nothing about reciprocating with a military concession.

Two weeks later, at Las Vegas, Secretary Rusk said more plainly that "some governments said Hanoi would talk if we would stop bombing North Vietnam."

"He tried that twice--briefly last spring (1965) and, recently, for 37 days. But it made no difference; Hanoi would not come to the conference table."

It can be argued, and in fact it was argued by some of our military men, that such a parley while the bombing was suspended would become what Time magazine has called "a lethal filibuster." Hanoi would build up powerful forces against us.

What is certain, as Time says, also, is that in 1967 the President has stiffened his terms and is no longer willing to accept his 1966 terms.

"As recently as the 37-day bombing pause in 1966 the administration was offering to end the air war for nothing more than an agreement to begin negotiations. . . Since then the administration has been demanding a quid pro quo before it will agree to call off the bombing raids against the North."

Here lies the explanation of Prime Minister Kosygin and U Thant's statements and of the President's strange behavior in ignoring them both.

Kosygin and U Thant brought us the assurance that our 1955 terms-of-suspension for an unconditional parley--would now be accepted by Hanoi. Our response was to ignore the assurances because what they were promising us was no longer acceptable to us.

There is, therefore, a deadlock in the maneuvering for a negotiated settlement. We have been told that we can get to day what we wanted in 1965. We cannot get what we are now asking, not yet at least, and so the war goes on with no end in sight.

'WHY NEGOTIATE? HE WAS WAVING A WHITE FLAG!'

JAMES RESTON

'More Of The Same'

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON—The Johnson Administration's new slogan for the Vietnam war is "more of the same." This has a cool and almost casual sound but the nation should be very clear about what it means.

It means more bombing, more shelling of the enemy coasts, more mining of his rivers, more hunting the enemy in the Mekong Delta, more troopships to Vietnam, more casualties, more military appropriations, more and more pressure on Hanoi, and more risk of bringing China into the war.

"More of the same" is quite a lot. For some months, we have been dropping more bombs on North and South Vietnam than we dropped on Europe at the height of the last world war. And the phrase has a particularly nasty sound when applied to casualties.

Last week was the bloodiest of the war. According to the official U.S. estimates, 211 Americans were killed, 1874 wounded, and seven missing. In this same week, the enemy dead totaled 2,675. This brought to 19,500 the number of enemy soldiers killed since Jan. 1, and nobody even pretends to have any accurate figures on civilian casualties.

Both the administration's policy and its assumptions are clearer since the Guam conference, but the hard realities behind the bland phrases are still not generally understood. The hard reality is that President Johnson has decided on a policy of steadily rising and relentless military pressure on the enemy in the North and in the South until he is assured by Hanoi "that infiltration into South Vietnam by land and sea has stopped."

This is not a policy of using whatever conventional force is necessary to compel the enemy to stop the infiltration and talk. The war is still "limited" and the peace offers are still open, but the fighting will be less "limited" from now on.

The President's assumption is that this policy will not bring China into the war, but he cannot know. That is not in his hands. His first military intelligence concern is what is happening in South China, which he has under constant aerial surveillance, and there is no evidence there so far of unusual or ominous troop movements. So he may be right. There are reports of a fierce debate in Peking over the question of Chinese intervention, and this is taken with the utmost seriousness by at least one high official here, but most of the President's advisers think the Chinese leaders are too divided to risk a war with the United States.

Meanwhile, despite the enemy's losses by death, disease, and defection, his forces in the south continue to rise. The same U.S. communicate that claimed 2,675 enemy dead and 1,004 enemy defectors last week also estimated that the total enemy force went up by 4,000 in that same week to 284,000. This too is "more of the same"—more optimistic reports of the bombing but more enemy troops all the time.

How long can this go on? Nobody here pretends to know. The U.S. government does have captured enemy documents indicating that the enemy commanders in the field are concealing the extent of their losses and telling Hanoi that they have killed and wounded between 20 and 40 times more Americans than they actually have.

This may be deceiving Hanoi into false and optimistic estimates of the ground war, but for whatever the reason, and despite all the bombing, the infiltration keeps up with the casualties and the fighting this week has been savage. Nevertheless, it is unreasonable to suppose that Hanoi can take the bombing indefinitely. Ho Chi Minh has always claimed that the East's advantage over the West was that they died better, but even this is no answer.

The real danger with China will come, however, not when the war is dragging on as before, but when the U.S. really begins to win it. China did not intervene in Korea until the U.S. was on the point of victory; then she crossed the Yalu. "More of the same" in that sense would be decidedly awkward.

to escape the bind is logical. So far as one can judge from the available facts, the order has already been given. The pressure from the miscellany demilitarized zone in the extreme north of this corps area is being somewhat increased, no doubt to prevent reinforcement of the Southern Corps area. All over the whole corps area, too, local pressure has recently been much intensified. In addition to showy stunts like the rocket attacks on Da Nang air-base, the Viet Cong have resumed really intense guerrilla activity, often with the aid of small packets of North Vietnamese specialists and other troops assigned to aid the guerrilla bands.

Since the beginning of March there have been 12 guerrilla assaults on revolutionary development teams in the villages, plus a whole series of attacks on small district towns. The revolutionary development teams have successfully resisted the recent assaults, experiencing trifling losses and standing firm in all cases. However, two district capitals, Hieu Nhon in the South and Phu Tu farther north, have been successfully overrun with all the consequences—in the form of eyeballs gouged out, corpses mutilated and little children publicly executed—that one must expect in such cases from "agrarian reformers."

Despite these two successes of a very localized character, the recent balance sheet does not favor the enemy. Since Feb. 1 in this corps area they have lost just under 5,000 men killed in action and left to be counted on the battlefield, plus another 6,000 or so either killed in action or disabblingly wounded, plus nearly 500 prisoners of war. It is a grim toll for one corps area.

But from here to the Laos border there is a mountain corridor through which infiltration is easier than in most places in Vietnam. Replacements have clearly been coming in to bring the local main force regiments up to strength. For example, the VC Second Regiment, driven north from Binh Dinh Province in very poor shape, has reportedly received no less than 1,800 North Vietnamese replacements to fill up its ranks again.

Already, moreover, a premature drive to take Quang Ngai Province's capital has been bloodily frustrated. An attack in force was resisted through a long, hard night, and when dawn broke, the enemy had left above 200 dead on the perimeter. The South Vietnamese army then caught the larger follow-up force in an unfavorable position. They three times fixed bayonets and three times charged the enemy, and they took a further toll of above 800 counted dead.

Yet one may guess that the large enemy forces that still threaten the marines, South Koreans and South Vietnamese in this province will eventually return to the attack with even greater determination. It just could be that one of the decisive battles of the war is in preparation here in Quang Ngai where the rich rice plain is a prize of such great importance, even without the pressure of Resolution 12.

For the other side there is a major external factor that has perhaps not been considered, however. The First Air Cavalry can still swoop into Quang Ngai like an avenging hawk from two neighboring corps if the necessity arises.

IN SPITE OF DENIALS

LBJ Primes Economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite denials of pump-priming, the Johnson administration is giving the economy its biggest dose of stimulation since the first part of 1964.

This was confirmed yesterday by the Commerce Department which said the deficit in the national income accounts budget ran at an annual rate of $3.6 billion during the last three months of 1966.

It's expected to show an even bigger deficit during the present quarter, officials said, because more than a billion dollars in previously frozen federal funds have now been made available for spending.

The fourth-quarter deficit was the largest since the $6.7-billion deficit, also at an annual rate, for the second quarter of 1964. This was caused by a cut in income taxes designed to stimulate the economy. The newest deficit results from increased federal spending, especially for defense and Social Security and veterans benefits.

President Johnson, in his budget message last January, emphasized the national income accounts figures as being a more accurate indication of over-all government policy on the economy.

They include not only spending in the more familiar administrative budget but also receipts and spending from government trust funds including the Social Security and railroad retirement funds.

A national income accounts budget deficit means the government is pumping more money into the economy than it's taking out.

For the fiscal year which ends

June 30, Johnson estimated a $3.8-billion deficit in the accounts budget.

Government economists deny that any pump priming is under way because of the release of more than a billion dollars in previously frozen federal funds and federal mortgage money. They contend the economy is now able to absorb the money without disruption.

Employment Drops in 3 States

NEW YORK (AP) — General employment in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania dropped 2.5 per cent in January, the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics said yesterday, but it labeled the decline "primarily seasonal."

Herbert Bienstock, regional director of the bureau, said the drop followed the 2.4 per cent decline in national employment during January.

Hardest hit were trade and government personnel. Bienstock said 177,000 trade employees and 38,000 government employees lost their jobs—primarily because of layoffs after the Christmas rush.

Factory employment was down 43,000, with the food processing, textile and apparel industries suffering the greatest losses. Seventeen of 20 major industries reported declines.

Bienstock said the construction industry registered its "usual January decline," losing 50,000 jobs. He said other major industry divisions also registered seasonal declines.

New York factory workers lost 33 cents in their weekly earnings to $113.03. In Pennsylvania, earnings dropped $1.11 to $111.76. Bienstock said both losses reflected shorter work weeks in the two states.

Factory workers in New Jersey earned 12 cents more in January, bringing weekly earnings to $120.06.

TODAY'S SUFFERING

'Relevant' Service Held in Pittsburgh

By G. DAVID WALLACE
PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — Roman Catholics observed Good Friday at St. Mary's of the Point church in downtown Pittsburgh with a new way of the Cross that depicts Jesus' suffering in terms of race riots, city slums and war.

Instead of finding their inspiration in sculptured figures on the walls showing Jesus at 14 stages as he climbed the hill with the Cross, the worshippers followed a booklet with pictures of a Ku Klux Klan meeting, a derelict with his head buried in his hands, a kneeling Negro surrounded by a white mob and being kicked in the chest or a stooped migrant worker cutting asparagus.

"Look, Christ falls again," said the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Louis J. Nene at the seventh station, commemorating Jesus' second fall beneath the Cross.

Grand Jury Rejects Hoffa Bid

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — A federal grand jury returned two indictments yesterday stemming from its 16-month investigation of affidavits filed with Teamsters President James R. Hoffa's third bid for a new jury-tampering trial.

U.S. Dist. Judge Robert L. Taylor of Knoxville, who empaneled the jury in December 1965, after U.S. Dist. Judge Frank Wilson of Chattanooga stepped aside, received the sealed indictments. Judge Wilson named in one of the affidavits, excused himself in the case. Although the jury has attended to other matters in recent months, notably a probe of organized crime, only Taylor could receive its indictment on matters relating to Hoffa.

The organized crime probe resulted Wednesday in an indictment against City Police Commissioner James E. Turner on a moonshine conspiracy charge. Yesterday's indictments came as lawyers for Hoffa and the Justice Department sought to agree on a hearing date for the labor chief's fourth new trial motion. This motion now is pending before Judge Wilson, as Hoffa serves an eight-year federal prison sentence at Lewisburg, Pa.

While the third motion alleged misconduct on the part of Wilson and the jurors who heard Hoffa's lengthy 1964 trial on jury-tampering charges, the fourth motion was based entirely on allegations of new evidence that the government used wiretapping and electronic eavesdropping against Hoffa during the trial.

Union Laborers Join Dairymen

CHICAGO (AP) — Labor Union members joined farmers on picket lines in Tennessee yesterday as the National Farmers Organization offered four-month contracts to processors.

At least three plants closed, two in Nashville and one in Portsmouth, Ohio, on the ninth day of the NFO milk-withholding drive.

Oren Lee Staley, NFO president, said the contracts would be simple documents, increasing payments to farmers by two cents a quart and omitting the complicated formula for seasonal price variations and other standard clauses.

The NFO's campaign seeks to add two cents to the prices paid to farmers, now generally eight to 10 cents a quart.

Nashville milk processors were reported to be planning court action to halt picketing of their plants by locals of the Meat Cutters and Teamsters unions. Both locals, which represent milk truck drivers, ordered a ban on deliveries.

A sniper's bullet shattered the windshield of a milk truck outside the Purity Dairies plant in Nashville while the driver, William Bruce, headed out to make deliveries to grocers. Bruce said 15 or 20 pickets, representing the NFO and the Teamsters Union, were near the plant, but he saw no weapon.

"I have no idea where the shot came from," he said. The Scioto County Milk Producers Association in Portsmouth, Ohio, announced it was shutting down operations. The association has seven trucks, which collect about 112,000 pounds of milk each day from 150 farms. Four of its seven directors are members of the NFO.

Two unions representing about 2,000 workers at the U.S. Air Force wind tunnel testing facility in Tullahoma, Tenn., voted to support the NFO milk boycott. They are the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and the Air Engineering Metal Trades Council.

Staley, at NFO headquarters in Corning, Iowa, stated that the holdout will go on indefinitely if milk producers spurn the contract offer.

At the end of the initial four months, under the proposal, agreements could be renewed for a full year unless either party gave notice of intention to cancel.

No milk shortage was reported in Nashville as unionists and farmers teamed up. But A.J. Glasser, president of Purity Dairies, said their common front "will paralyze the whole industry if it is allowed to continue."

Police said a group of men stopped a truck near Edinboro and dumped 42 ten-gallon cans. In another incident, vandals poured oil into a milk tank near Waterford.

Clair Flynn, president of the Erie County, NFO, said dairies are watering milk, and supplies of ice cream and other products are dwindling. "The milk you buy in stores today is probably the lowest in test quality you ever drank," said Flynn.

day of the NFO milk-withholding drive.

Oren Lee Staley, NFO president, said the contracts would be simple documents, increasing payments to farmers by two cents a quart and omitting the complicated formula for seasonal price variations and other standard clauses.

The NFO's campaign seeks to add two cents to the prices paid to farmers, now generally eight to 10 cents a quart.

Nashville milk processors were reported to be planning court action to halt picketing of their plants by locals of the Meat Cutters and Teamsters unions. Both locals, which represent milk truck drivers, ordered a ban on deliveries.

Dump Erie Co. Milk

ERIE, Pa. (AP)—Police reported new incidents of vandalism in Erie County yesterday as the 25-state milk withholding action by the National Farmers Association (NFO) passed its ninth day.

Police said a group of men stopped a truck near Edinboro and dumped 42 ten-gallon cans. In another incident, vandals poured oil into a milk tank near Waterford.

Clair Flynn, president of the Erie County, NFO, said dairies are watering milk, and supplies of ice cream and other products are dwindling.

'Resolution Twelve'

CHU LAI, QUANG NGAI PROVINCE, VIETNAM — In the documents captured during the "Cedar Falls" operation there was a long, somewhat abstract discussion by one of the leading Viet Cong cadres of the "Resolution 12" voted by a major Communist Party meeting in Hanoi not long ago, it concerned the course of the war in Vietnam.

The gobble-dyok of the resolution has to be deduced from the gobble-dyok of the VC cadre. But it is pretty clear that this party resolution acknowledged, at least by implication, that time was no longer on the side of the Viet Cong in the war in the South.

This was an acknowledgment, in other words, that the balance of attrition in the war was heavily unfavorable to the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese units at the front — as it most certainly is. In consequence, the party meeting apparently required the front line commanders to combine a maximum guerrilla effort with a maximum effort to achieve a striking local victory of Dien Bien Phu-type.

The idea — if one may judge by the precedent-ridden thinking of the North Vietnamese Communists — was perhaps to create conditions more favorable to negotiations, as Dien Bien Phu undoubtedly did. The resolution is of special interest here at Chu Lai, the headquarters of Marine Task Force X-Ray.

The marine battalions of X-Ray, plus the South Vietnamese guarding the province capital, plus the tough South Korean marines, hold no more than about one-half of Quang Ngai Province's rice plain. They hold almost none of the hinterland, moreover. And in the mountainous hinterland there are probably five enemy regiments.

Quite without regard to Resolution 12 of the party meeting in Hanoi, it would be logical for the strategists of Military Region 5 to order a supreme effort in the First Corps area at this time. As reported previously, the North Vietnamese and VC main force units that have been pushed into the mountainous hinterland are in a grim bind produced by the combination of the diseases of the high jungle and the threat of acute food shortage within a few months. ### Truckers Urged

The Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association has again urged the operators of Pennsylvania's more than 631,000 trucks to curtail truck operations except for emergency service over the long Easter weekend. Only essential medical, perishable and emergency deliveries were requested, according to a spokesman for the statewide association of truck operators.

Gay Brewer Fired 64 in Second 18 At Pensacola for 130 Total

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Defending champion Gay Brewer Jr., rolling in 10 birdies, led a near-record assault on par with a 64 stroke lead after 35 holes in the $75,000 Pensacola Open Golf Tournament.

Brewer's round gave him a halfway total of 130—14-under, par, lowest in the year—but only a two-shot advantage over amateur Ron Cerrundo, 22-year-

Southeastern Schools to Desegregate

WASHINGTON (AP)— Member colleges of the Southeastern Conference are being reminded by the U.S. Office of Education of requirements for desegregation of athletic programs.

A spokesman said yesterday "We are talking to Southeastern Conference members." When asked if similar action is under way in other areas, he said, "We are concentrating now on the Southeastern Conference."

The spokesman declined to name any of the schools that have been approached, but said their officials have been told that it is planned to discuss the situation with every member of the conference.

Any member of the Southeastern Conference that has accepted federal aid comes under that requirement.

old Walker Cup ace from San Rafael, Calif., shooting his second straight 66 and Homer Blancas of Houston, who bogeyed the last hole for a 67. They were tied at 132.

Just one stroke back at 133 were former PGA champion Bobby Nichols, whose gamble on the 18th cost him a bogey and a chance to match Brewer's 64; colorful Phil Rodgers, with a 66; and the 32-year-old Ken Still, scoring his second straight 67.

The easy-playing conditions of the 5,380-yard Pensacola Country Club Course—hard fairways, warm temperatures and no wind—made it a travesty of par for the touring pros.

Par shooters failed to make the cut with the field reduced to the low 70 scorers and ties. The cutoff point was 141, three under par.

Bob Gorham, press director for the PGA, said he could find no record where there had been a lower cutoff point on the PGA tour. A record 80 men broke par on the opening round.

Some of the big-name players in the field barely survived, however. Four of them were bracketed at 140—10 shots off the pace.

They included Jack Nicklaus, the reigning Masters and British Open champion, who shot a 69 despite wildness off the tee; Gary Player of South Africa, who complained that he missed 15 putts of under 12 feet in shooting a 72; Doug Sanders, with a 71, and two-time National Open champion Julius Boros, with a 69.

Arnold Palmer and U.S. Open champion Bill Casper are the only headliners not on the field.

Brewer, who won this event a year ago when Sanders was disqualified for failing to sign his scorecard, started his second round on the back nine and reeled off six birdies in a row and seven in a stretch of eight holes to turn in, the lowest nine of the year.

Jim Welchers, a 22-year-old rookie of the tour, shot his 67 and was tied with Wayne Yates at 134. At 135 were Rex Baxter, 65, and Gardner Dickinson, 67, followed by big Mike Souchak and Dan Sikes, tied at 136.

NINTH IN A SERIES

Braves: Continue Late Rise

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer
WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—When the Atlanta Braves put on a late season surge last year, everyone credited Billy Hitchcock with shaking them out of the lethargic state they had been in for the first four months.

Hitchcock replaced an unpopular Bobby Bragan as manager Aug. 9, and from then on the Braves won 33 games and lost 18, moving from seventh place to as high as fourth before setting in fifth. Hitchcock was rewarded with a chance to see what he could do from the start of the season, and he's optimistic about what he — or more correctly, the Braves — can do.

"I think we'll contend for this thing," he said, referring to the National League pennant the Braves last won in 1957 and 1958. "I don't know who's going to win it, but I think we have the ballplayers to do it."

Hitchcock is particularly pleased with the trade that brought third baseman Clete Boyer to the Braves from the New York Yankees. Although his lifetime batting average is only .240, Boyer always has been considered one of the top defensive infielders in the majors.

"There's not much more I can say about his glove than everyone already knows," Hitchcock said. "We feel he's going to stabilize our infield. Last year we had some holes, but now the infield definitely will be tighter."

The rest of the infield has Denis Menke at shortstop, Woody Woodward at second and Felipe Alou at first.

The mention of Alou brings a smile of contentment to Hitchcock's face. The 31-year-old Felipe lost the fight for the batting title to his younger brother, Matty of Pittsburgh, but over all he had a tremendous year.

Felipe rapped 218 hits, socked 31 homers and batted .327.

Another of the Braves' hefty crew of sluggers was catcher Joe Torre, who hit 36 homers, drove in 101 runs and batted .315. Besides catching, Torre will put some time in at first base with Alou moving to center field at certain times against left-handed pitchers.

Gene Oliver is a capable backup man behind the plate and at first.

In his outfield, Hitchcock has one of the best trios in the league — Hank Aaron in right, Mack Jones in center and Rico Carty in left.

Aaron's batting average slipped to .279, the lowest in his career, but he compensated for that by winning league titles in homers, 44, and runs batted in, 127.

Carty's primary problems had been his fielding, but Hitchcock is pleased with what he calls Rico's tremendous improvement in left.

That leaves the pitching staff, which could be the Braves' biggest problem. Potentially, the staff is one of the best. Medically, it also ranks near the top.

In 1966, Wade Blasingame was plagued by a bad left shoulder all year and dropped to three victories from 16 the season before; Denny Lemaster hurt his left elbow Aug. 19 and didn't pitch the rest of the season; and Ken Johnson suffered at various times from a sore arm and a sore knee.

Assuming their troubles are over, Hitchcock plans to use Lemaster and Johnson along with Tony Cloninger, Dick Kelley and Pat Jarvis as his five starters.

Blasingame will be right behind that group as will Bob Bruce and Don Schwall. Clay Carroll will head the bullpen.

"The health of those pitchers will be very interesting to watch," Hitchcock said.

So might the Braves.

Jackson Valley Set For Top-Flight Golf

Jackson Valley Country Club, new pro and all, is ready for a season of top-flight golf.

New pro at Jackson Valley is Les Rettberg. He comes here from the Emporium Country Club where he held a similar position for four years.

He will assume his new duties on April 1 when he opens the new golf pro shop. He will carry a complete line of golf clothes, shoes and equipment.

In his four years at Emporium Rettberg conducted some of the most outstanding tournaments in the area. His work has made the Bucktail Trail Invitational one of the top events in the area. The starting field has increased every year since the inception of the tournament.

At a meeting last night Jackson Valley Country Club officials and committee members made the final plans for the coming golf season.

Among the new innovations being planned is junior golf on Monday mornings. Before the youthful members take the course there will be a half hour of instruction given by the new pro.

Every Wednesday, starting June 7, there will be a men's stag day tournament.

Friday nights there will be couples tournament and stag kickers tournament.

The schedule for all major events at J.V.C.C. are as follows:

On May 6 there will be the Spring Dinner Dance; May 30 will be the Flag Day Tournament. On June 17 there will be a two-ball party with another coming on the Fourth of July.

The Jackson Valley Open will be held on July 8. The President's Cup will be contested on July 15 and 16.

There will be a three day event, August 18-20 to hold the member-guest tournament.

On September 2 there will be a member-member tournament with a two-ball tourney on Sept. 4.

The Fall Dinner Dance will be held November 4. The awards will also be presented at this time.

It was announced that there is a good possibility that there will be two more tournaments added to the schedule. They could be a father and son event and a home-and-home tourney with another area club.

Harold Martin, greens superintendent, reported that the new nine holes will be ready to go very early in the season. Martin said that there was no winter kill on any of the greens, meaning that they should be in fine shape this year.

The membership committee announced that there has been an increase of over 100 per cent in season memberships at J.V.C.C. The committee also said that if anyone else desires a membership that they should call the club.

Rates are as follows. Family Membership—$125; single male—$90; single female and juniors—$60.

Rettberg announced that there would be tee time reservations for all members on Saturday, Sunday and Holidays by calling the pro shop.

Cornplanter Club Ready

The Cornplanter Gun Club held its monthly meeting last Monday at their clubhouse.

They announced that they will hold a breakfast on Sunday, April 2. Following that they will install new lights and finish the new safety system on the trap house.

The club also discussed putting new lights in the clubhouse.

T. Young, Cornplanter's representative to the Warren County Council, gave a report on the bi-monthly meeting held at Brokenstraw Fish and Game Club.

Following the meeting Lawrence Fox presented the club with a certificate of appreciation from the Boy Scouts of America for outstanding cooperation.

Two films were also shown. "Big Game Camera Holiday" and "Arctic Fishing" were enjoyed by the members. Lunch concluded the evening. It was served by John and Bud Naegeli.

ENTERTAINS AT SPORTS SHOW

The Pennsylvania Bank and Trust Company yesterday announced showtimes for their annual participation in the Kiwanis Sports Show. The bank will present one of America's premier unicycle acts, the internationally known Cyclonians, who will be seen in three shows Saturday at 3, 5 and 8 p. m., and at 2 p. m. on Sunday. Joyce and Charlie Van Buskirk, shown above, who appear as the Cyclonians, are a talented and youthful team from Rochester, N. Y., who have been seen in many cities throughout the country and also with King Bros. Circus under the management of James M. Cole, who is well known in the Warren area.

Jews Open Observance Of Purim at Sundown

A Jewish Festival which combines the frivolity of Mardi Gras with the serious message of universal religious freedom will be marked with the observance of Purim, the Feast of Lots, beginning at sundown today.

Dr. Kurt L. Metzger, rabbi of Temple Beth-El, Bradford, issues the following statement on the Festival: The occasion recalls the ancient story unfolded in the Megillah or scroll containing the biblical Book of Esther. The narrative recounts the days of the Jewish queen, Esther, and her valiant efforts to free her people from the hands of Haman, religious schools present Purim

New Plan Of Training Of Workers

People who have experienced difficulty in getting suitable jobs because of lack of training or for other reasons are scheduled to be aided by a new Human Resources Development program of the Bureau of Employment Security, according to Andrew J. Donick, manager of the Warren office.

Set to start April 3, the stepped-up activity will be aimed at expanded services to help prepare persons of all employable ages for job opportunities available in the Commonwealth.

Donick said that local organizations will be called on to cooperate in establishing and insuring success of the new program.

In preparation for the Human Resources Development program, Bureau employees throughout the state have been attending meetings to hear and discuss plans for a large-scale change in program and operation.

Officials in charge of preparation for Human Resources Development program have emphasized the need for cooperation in local communities to meet the challenge of the new activity.

Efforts are to be made by Bureau personnel to find the people who need help obtaining jobs, to help motivate unemployed people to seek jobs, to expand job training facilities under the Manpower Development and Training Act and to aid in job placement action.

Four major program areas are envisioned in the HRD concept: outreach services, employability services, job development and placement services and job market information.

According to Donick, HRD services in the Pennsylvania plan, would be expanded in metropolitan areas, other cities and in rural areas.

The plan developed calls for establishment of HRD centers in larger cities. In surrounding areas where there are population concentrations, services will be provided in offices now functioning. In very small towns and rural areas, HRD services would be provided by traveling teams of personnel on a district basis.

Ever since then, Jews associate all dictators who oppress freedom of worship with Haman. Today, Jews all over the world look with concern at the restriction imposed on their brethren behind the Iron Curtain.

The holiday is celebrated as a her valiant efforts to free her people from the hands of Haman, religious schools present Purim

Curriculum Research Conference at Erie

The Northwestern Pennsylvania State Education Association, Department of Supervision and Curriculum, and the regional PACE office of Title III of the Elementary-Secundary Education Act will sponsor a Curriculum Research Conference Wednesday, March 29, at the Holiday Inn South, Erie.

The theme for the one day affair is "Developing and Evaluating Experimental Programs." A full day program is arranged, including four major presentations and two work group sessions. Following the registration at 8:30 a.m., Frank Gerhardt, the assistant superintendent of the Cleveland Heights, University Heights Schools in Ohio, and Morris Sorin, director of education in the same schools, will present a newly developed social science studies program as a model program for discussion and evaluation during the day.

At the luncheon meeting, Dr. James Jacobs, assistant superintendent in charge of program development in the Cincinnati Public Schools, will discuss "Evaluation As a Factor in Program Development."

Following the second work group in the afternoon, Patrick F. Toole, curriculum development specialist from the Bureau of Curriculum Planning, Department of Public Instruction, Harrisburg, will speak on the topic "Taking a Look at Innovative Curriculums. The Why and the How."

At the final session following dinner, Jack Frymier, professor in the department of education at Ohio State University, a specialist in curriculum research, will close the conference with his presentation "The Real Problem in Education Change."

Bell Records Sharp Gains, Has Big Year

PHILADELPHIA — The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania had one of the best years in its history in 1966. R.M. Wachob, company president, reported this week.

There were more telephones in service and more calls completed than in any previous year. Record construction expenditures of $146 million were required to keep pace with this stepped-up demand for service, Wachob said.

The company's annual report shows a 4.4 per cent increase in the number of telephones to a new high of 5,271,000 and an increase of more than one million in the daily average of calls to a record 22.2 million. Residence telephones totaled 3,953,000, with nearly 55 extension phones for every 100 main stations.

Effective marketing of optional services for residence customers and of the wide range of special equipment and services for business customers, coupled with strict expense controls, enabled the company to improve earnings despite increased wage and benefit expenses, higher costs for some materials and services, and reductions in rates, the report states. The company's earnings increased to $2.46 per share from $2.41 in 1965.

The company's statewide payroll in 1966 increased eight per cent to a new high of $228 million. The state's economy benefited also by the $160 million spent by the Bell Company and Western Electric, its chief supplier, for the purchase of materials and services from 17,000 Pennsylvania firms during the year.

Fairview Autoist Has Close Escape

ERIE — Joseph Pamula, 42, Fairview, miraculously escaped serious injury when his car went through a guard rail and went over an embankment on Rte. 20 at Walnut Creek early Thursday afternoon. He was treated at St. Vincent Hospital for a dislocated shoulder and released.

Three Cars Crash, One Man Hurt

CORRY — A snowstorm which cut visibility to almost zero and glazed roads with ice Thursday morning, touched off a crash here injuring one man and causing extensive damage.

Three cars were involved in a 7 a.m. mishap which occurred on East Columbus ave., according to Police Chief Frank Carnegie.

Police said a car driven by Richard L. Trislet, RD 1, Columbus, started to slide sideways and moved into the path of an eastbound car operated by Grant L. Johnson, of 318 W. Church st.

According to police, the Johnson car was unable to stop and the two cars collided. The impact, police stated, pushed the Johnson vehicle off the road. While this was happening, a third car, driven by Gerard Schuster, RD 4, Corry, traveling east, was unable to stop and struck the side of the Trislet vehicle.

Johnson was admitted to Corry Memorial Hospital where a spokesman said he was being treated for a cerebral concussion, a cut on the head and arm and leg bruises.

Trislet complained of a leg injury but Schuster was unhurt.

Two Are Hunted After Holdup Attempt Foiled

ERIE — Millcreek police yesterday were looking for two men who attempted to rob a drive-in restaurant employee making a deposit early yesterday at the Union Bank, 2256 W. Lake rd. Police said the robbery attempt occurred at 1:10 a.m. yesterday as an employee of the restaurant approached the bank to deposit the night receipts.

Thomas W. Kienes told police a man, about six feet tall, 180 pounds, wearing a hood and white jersey with football numbers, walked from a hiding place on the west side of the bank and began struggling for the money bag.

Two other restaurant employees, who were waiting for Kienes in the car, called out for police.

The assailant and his companion, who stood off to one side, during the struggle, fled north through the backyards near the bank.

The men deposited the money and contacted Millcreek police. Township and city dogs were taken to the scene but were unable to pick up any scent.

The three restaurant employees described the second man as being about five feet, eight inches tall, 145 pounds. They said he had an elastic bandage wrapped around his head and only his nose and mouth were visible.

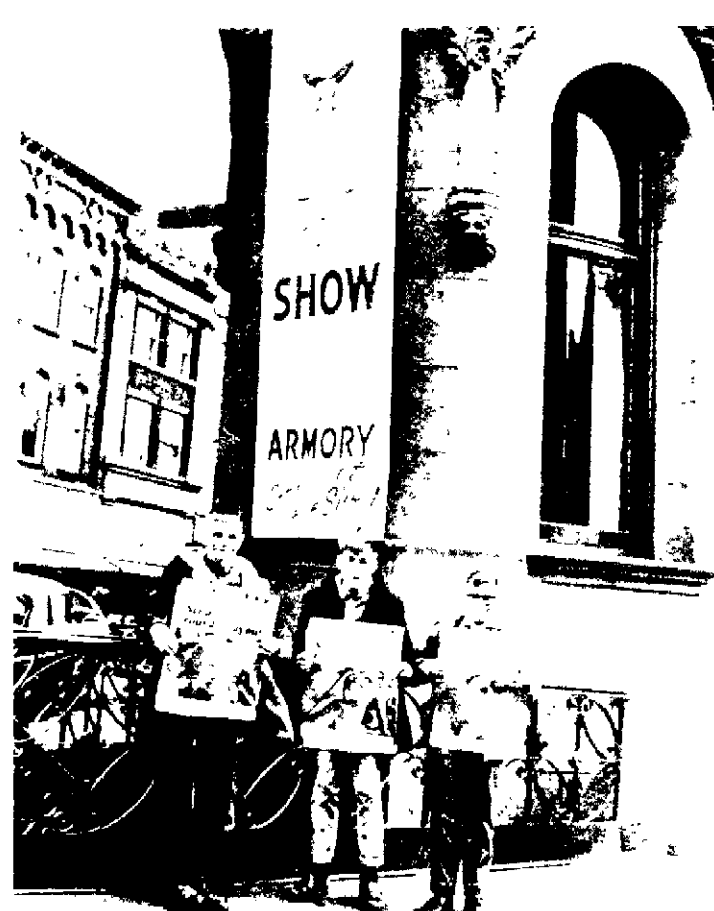

Investigating officers declined to reveal how much money was in the deposit bag.

Will Not Tolerate

Harborcreek supervisors this week said the early posting of political signs in the township will not be tolerated and pointed out there is an ordinance in the township governing such posting. The township zoning administrator said that under the ordinance, political signs are permitted one month before the election date and must be removed two weeks after election. Also in Harborcreek, no signs are permitted on utility poles and trees.

Scout Troop 50 of Ludlow, sponsored by Ludlow District Committee, will demonstrate various Scout communications techniques.

POSTERS FOR SCOUT SHOW

Distribution of posters for the "Scouting in Action Show" which the Boy Scouts will stage at the State Armory on April 8th from 2 to 8 p. m. took place yesterday. Above are shown three of the boys, left to right, Craig Levine and Jim Keller, Troop 12, and Mickey Wolf, Troop 8. The Scouts will handle the ticket sale for the show, which will include many booths and a panoramic display of the activities of the Explorers, Scouts and Cubs. (Photo by Mansfield)

'Scouting in Action' Show Planned Saturday, April 8

Where the action is will be the big "Scouting in Action Show" at Warren National Guard Armory, Saturday, April 8, from 2 to 8 p.m.

Friday morning eight members of Scout Troop 8 and 5 members of Scout Troop 12 distributed posters for the show throughout the Warren area, with a hundred posters blossoming out in store windows, banks, and other institutions.

The "Scouting in Action Show" will be just that," reports William Wolfersberger, Scout Executive Cornerplanter Council. There will be about 25 different action booths, each with a group of Explorers, Scouts or Cubs actually in action.

Troop 8 boys who distributed posters, under direction of Scoutmaster John McFate, are Harry Levinson, Dean Maniakas, David McFate, Kerry McDonald, Mickey Wolf, Danny Tracy, Dan Templeton and Joe Helrich. Troop 8 is sponsored by Jefferson Men's Bible Class of 1st Presbyterian Church.

Troop 12 boys on the poster project are Skip Boyer, Jim Killer, Craig Levine, Dean Wilson and Roger Shattuck, under Scoutmaster John Bimber. Troop 12 is sponsored by the Lutheran Churchmen of 1st Lutheran Church.

At the Scouting in Action show among other demonstrations exhibits Explorer Post 38, of Youngsville will demonstrate the latest scuba diving equipment. Post 38 advisor is Weston Augustine. It is sponsored by Youngsville Kiwanis Club.

Explorer Post 6, sponsored by St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Warren, will demonstrate actual mountain climbing techniques. Rudolph Kopecky is Post advisor.

Scout Troop 50 of Ludlow, sponsored by Ludlow District Committee, will demonstrate various Scout communications techniques.

Cub Pack 22 of Irvine, sponsored by Irvine PTA, will demonstrate a pine wood derby, with model racing cars on a special track.

Scout Troop 29, of Youngsville, sponsored by St. Luke's Catholic Church, will display model camp site, including cooking and camp equipment. They will make pancakes, and give them to visitors to the booth. Scoutmaster is Jack Foy.

Tickets are being sold by Scouts, Explorers and Cubs for 50 cents, for adults only. All children and young people through High School age, are admitted free of charge.

Net proceeds of the ticket sales go to each unit, to provide funds for camp equipment, troop flags, etc.

++ Kenneth Porter has accepted appointment as Cub Master of Irvinedale School P.T.A., sponsored Cub Pack, Eugene Shive is his assistant, and Mrs. Glen Valentine den mother, William Daley is chairman of the Pack committee.

Den meetings will resume in April. Plans are being made now for a summertime program. Porter will announce time and place for the April meeting of the committee and leaders.

++ Round Table for Scouters and Cubbers will be held April 6 at Russell Methodist Church at 7:30 p.m. This is Boy Scout and Cub Scout workshop on programs, for Scoutmasters, Cubmasters, and assistants, den mothers and committee members.

Cub Scouting theme for May is "Cub Scout Circus." All Cub unit leaders are asked to wear a circus costume to the round table, to emphasize the May theme.

Theme for Scouting in May is Week End Camporee. Outdoors Pack-In Camporees will be held, with a program of competitive events, including contests in log rolling, log raising, sawing, wood-chopping, relay, etc.

THE 125TH ANNIVERSARY of First Lutheran Church is soon to be celebrated, with perhaps the nicest event saved for the last. On the night of Wednesday, April 12th, Pastor Frederick Haer and Mrs. Haer, with Assistant Pastor R. Lee Mull and Mrs. Mull, will be hosts at a dinner honoring former pastors of the church, assistants, and the sons of the church who have become ministers, and their wives. The following are expected to attend the dinner at the Penn Laurel: Pastors Rogers, Beck (now 92), Stofcheck, Benson, Shaughnessy, Timm, Decker, Soderberg and Schueltz. Later in the evening, back at the church, there is to be an anniversary program with historical slides; an original play entitled "Talking Church," written and directed by the Karl Timms; and finally just a quietly enjoyable time of social mixing, during which refreshments will be served by Mrs. William Leuthold and her committee. The preceding Sunday, April 9, Dr. William Hankey, president of Western-Pennsylvania West Virginia Synod, will be the special speaker at the two morning services, and an Anniversary Choir will sing two old favorites. Tuesday, April 11, from 2 to 9 p.m., an open house is to be held in Fellowship Hall where historical items will be on display gathered and arranged by church Historian, Mrs. Sheridan Brown.

A CLOTHESLINE EXHIBIT occupied the attention of the Reuben E. Fenton Philatelic Society at its meeting recently in the Fenton Mansion, Jamestown. Entries ranged from the White Plains sheet to the Cat and Dog sets of Poland and it goes without saying, members enjoyed a lively swap session! The next meeting in the Reuben E. Fenton Mansion will be on Tuesday, March 28, at 8 p.m. The program will be a stamp auction, refreshments will be served, and all area stamp collectors are invited to attend.

MINIATURES: St. John's Lutheran Church Women are meeting on Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the church. A film strip "The Meaning of the Resurrection" will be shown.

Mrs. William Hesch of 25 Jefferson street, is at the Research Center of Jewish Hospital of Brooklyn for observation. Friends may write to her at Room 505, 555 Prospect Place, Jewish Hospital, Brooklyn, N.Y.

The Social Science Section of the Warren Academy of Sciences will meet on April 1, Saturday, 8 p.m. in the Woman's Club. The paper for the evening will be presented by Peter F. Rossmann entitled "Subject To Be Announced". Hosts are Robert Peterson, Walter Peterson, Clarence Pearson, Paul Ristau, Peter Rossmann, M. F. Saunders, Dinesh Saxena, Francis Solomon.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Although I have told my daughter many of the same things she has read in your column, she insists I am old fashioned but she says you are the living end.

Will you please help me out and express your views of a 17-year-old female who wrestles with her boy friend on the living room floor. What do you think of this behavior—even if she is wearing jeans?

The girl is a good student and sensible about most things, but for some mysterious reason she cannot understand why I object to her rolling around on the floor with her boy friend. Thank you, Ann.—MRS. T.H.R.

DEAR MRS. T.H.R.: This type of behavior is what I call "kidding on the square." It is not only unladylike but it is a teasing mechanism which could lead to trouble.

A 17-year-old girl should keep vertical when entertaining her boy friend. And she should be able to count four feet on the floor at all times—her two and his two.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: For over a year I was very friendly with an attractive bachelor who lived in the apartment next door. He said I cooked just like his mother. Before I knew it, I was setting the table for two almost every night.

When he started to pop in for breakfast I decided on a change in tactics and moved to a building four blocks away. We had talked about marriage and I was sure he was serious about me. I thought the move would bring him around, but I was wrong.

Now I never see him unless I invite him for dinner. An old neighbor told me that a career gal who rented my apartment is now cooking for him as I once did.

Do you think I was dumb to move? Please tell me because there will be another vacancy in that building soon and I can have it if I want it.—MOM'S APPLE PIE

DEAR PIE: This guy doesn't want to marry you, dearie. He only wants to EAT with you. Let somebody else feed his face.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: One of the best things about your column is that it makes our own troubles seem small when we read what other people have to put up with. I refer to the letter from the wife who was unhappy because her husband carried pictures of his parents in his wallet instead of her and the children.

I have the same problem but I never told anyone. I just sat around feeling sorry for myself. When that letter appeared in the paper, I showed it to a friend and asked her what she thought about it. Her reply knocked me for a loop. She said, "I wish I had the problem. My husband has been carrying a picture of his old girl friend for 9 years."

Now I feel lucky. Thanks, Ann. — NO MORE MOANING.

DEAR NO: I hope the gal who wrote the original letter sees yours. Maybe she'll feel lucky, too.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. (c) Publishers Newspaper Syndicate

THE GIRLS

By Franklin Folger

"One thing you've got to say for these silly families on television. They always get their problems settled in a half-hour."

BETTY ANN REAGLE

Wedding Date Set

Mr. and Mrs. David Reagle of RD 1, Russell, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Betty Ann, to Wayne E. Olson. Mr. Olson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Olson of 46 Wilson avenue, Jamestown, N.Y. The wedding will take place on Saturday afternoon, April 15, at 2:30, in the Scandia Covenant Church. Open Church will be observed.

Household Hint

If you are taking a trip of an hour or two that will extend over baby's feeding time, heat a bottle of the formula until it is hot and wrap in heavy duty aluminum wrap. It will then be warm when needed.

Halls Of Ivy

Linda Potter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Potter of RFD No. 3, Prosser Hill road, Jamestown, a Senior at Bard College, Annandale-on-Hudson, N.Y., won honorable mention from the Woodrow Wilson Foundation in French.

The aim of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation is to recruit new college teachers. Financed since 1958 by $52 million in grants from the Ford Foundation, it is the largest private source of support for advanced work in the liberal arts. This year 1,259 students out of 13,596 nominees were recipients of a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship for 1967-68.

Those named as Fellows receive one academic year of graduate education with tuition and fees paid by the Foundation, plus a living stipend of $2,000. And, the Foundation also awards a supplementary grant to the graduate school where each Fellow enrolls to be used for the most part for fellowships for advanced graduate students.

Helen Ulrich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ulrich of 929 Stone avenue, 1966-67 president of the College Government Association at Seton Hill College, Greensburg, Pennsylvania, was one of the speakers at the annual installation dinner of the association.

The principal speaker was Monsignor William G. Ryan, president of the college, who also installed the new 1967-68 president of the association.

Among the students officially recognized at the dinner was Susan Aljoe of Kane, president of the Women's Athletic Association.

Ann Morelli, daughter of Mrs. A. R. Morelli of 21 Redwood street, and a senior at Warren Area High School, has been accepted at Oberlin College, Oberlin, Ohio, for the September 1967 Freshman Class at the college.

Lee Lester, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Lester of Sugar Grove has been accepted into a service sorority at Niagara University, Theta Sigma Tau. One of the sorority's projects is a Field Day this spring to benefit impoverished children of the Niagara Falls area. Miss Lester, a sophomore majoring in Nursing, is a 1965 graduate of Eisenhower High School. She is now at home for the Easter Vacation.

Household Hint

While washing dishes, let glass baking pans, which you have filled with water, stand in the warm oven and they'll wash more easily.

Hints From Heloise

Well Organized Closet Space

DEAR HELOISE: My five daughters share one bedroom.

Finding their own clothes was a real problem until I solved it with the help of plastic bins from coffee and shortening cans.

I used a quarter for a pattern and cut a hole in the middle of each lid. With a marking pencil, I wrote each girl's name on a separate lid.

I slipped these marked lids on the poles across their closet and hung each girl's clothes between them. They are just like the size markers on the dress racks in large stores. If the pole isn't detachable, just cut the lid from the hole

Philomel Club
To Entertain
Mozart Club

Members of the Mozart Club of Jamestown will be guests of the Warren Philomel Club on Wednesday afternoon at two-thirty o'clock at the Woman's Club.

Continuing the exchange of programs, a custom which began approximately forty years ago, the Jamestown visitors will present the day's program.

Mrs. E. Herbert Boje will open the program with a discussion of "Russian Music."

A piano quartet, composed of Mrs. William R. Arnold, Mrs. Russell L. Johnson, Mrs. William P. Osmer Jr., and Mrs. Cleson E. Peck, will present "Valse Brillante" by Moszkowski and "Prelude in G Minor—Opus 23—No. 5" by Rachmaninoff.

Miss Ingrid Zeldin, accompanied by Mrs. Herbert W. Lind, pianist, will sing "None But the Lonely Heart" by Tchaikovsky and "Floods of Spring" by Rachmaninoff.

Concluding the program, Mrs. Jeffrey Broadhead will play "Fugitive Visions—Opus 22" by Prokofiev.

For the social hour and the tea following the program, Mrs. Glen Stone will be hostess chairman. Her committee will include Mrs. Donald Andersen, Mrs. L. J. Berger, Mrs. Rawlston Dinges, Mrs. E. M. Greenwood, Miss Mae McDermott, Mrs. Ann Munro, Mrs. James Springer, Mrs. Lawrence Stainbrook, Mrs. William Yeager Sr., Mrs. Russell Templeton, and Mrs. Kathryn Huber.

SUSAN QUICKSALL

The Career Academy, Washington, D.C., announces the graduation of Susan Quicksall daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Russell of 112 Jackson ave., Warren. Miss Quicksall completed the prescribed course of studies as a Medical Assistant at the academy. She received her cap and certificate at ceremonies in the Washington-Hilton Hotel recently.

Judith Diane McDade, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. McDade of 525 South State street, North Warren, will graduate from The Pennsylvania State University today, receiving her Bachelor of Arts degree in General Arts and Sciences.

Miss McDade plans to work at The Pennsylvania State University until June, when she will go on tour in Europe with the Pennsylvania State chapel choir. While in Europe, she hopes to visit her sister, Mrs. F. E. Larver, who is presently residing in Athens, Greece.

County Farmers Shared $46,283 Under '66 ASCS

In an interview with Gerald Bensink, office manager Warren County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, it was reported that during 1966 183 farmers in Warren County participated in the ASCS program. They receive cost share payments totalling $46,283. The money was used to carry out selected conservation practices needed to protect soil, water and woodlands.

In addition the county ASCS also helped provide necessary services by transferring $1,080 to the Soil Conservation Service.

In Warren County in 1966, 135 farms established 1,655 acres of permanent sod cover with payments of $27,836. Sixty nine improved cover by liming and fertilizing 1,012 acres, receiving payments totalling $12,032. Ten farms planted 192 acres of forest trees with cost sharing of $704. Seven farms improved 78 acres of timberland, with cost sharing of $1,585.

One farm developed a spring, $100. One farm established a 334 foot sod waterway, with cost sharing of $91. Two farms established cover on water diversions, etc., with a sharing of $92. One farm's 554 foot diversion terrace shared $99. Four farms installed 5,120 feet of open drains, to share $306. Eleven farms installed 20,989 feet of underground drains, to share $2,723. One farm established temporary protective

Erie County's Loans Continue to Mount

ERIE — Erie county's temporary loans are mounting. The commissioners Thursday authorized another $100,000 "tax anticipation" loan, bringing the total 1967 temporary loans to $1 million, up one-half million higher than at this date in the five previous years. The temporary budget still shows a deficit of $56,000.

Cabbage Growers Hold Out for $18

MEADVILLE — Cabbage growers of the area have voted to hold out for a $18 a ton price. Action was taken at a meeting held in Edinboro Grange Hall when the growers moved to obtain a better price from Albrow Packing Co. at Springboro.

vegetation cover on 159 acres, cost sharing $715.

In the feed grain program in 1966 there were 1,317 acres of cropland diverted from corn, with 182 farmers participating payments totalling $32,460.17.

In Warren County 178 acres were diverted in the Wheat Program by 53 farmers, for total payment of $5,424.40, including their price support.

In the 1966 wool program, payments were made for the marketing year 1965, paid in 1966: 5,118 pounds wool, $951, and 18,155 pounds unshorn lambs, $109.

A total of $34,952 was paid to 66 farmers with conservation reserve contracts including 2,558 acres.

In effect for 1966 were 17 cropland adjustment agreements, total payments amounting to $5,349.24. This figure includes $3.00 per acre bonus paid to those with public access agreements.

Clarion Wind Quintet Booked At CSC April 21

The Clarion Woodwind Quintet of New York will present a Concert at 8:15 p.m., April 21, the evening previous to Inauguration Day. The affair will be held in Memorial Auditorium and set the tone for the next day's events.

This Quintet is one of the finest of its kind in a great field of competition. In the spring of 1961 five American musicians, long associated with various orchestras, formed the Clarion Wind Quintet. All were members of the Clarion Orchestra, and their first concerts were under the auspices of the Clarion Music Society of New York.

They have gained a wide reputation as splendid performers of an extensive repertoire ranging from Mozart and Beethoven to choice modern compositions by Carl Nielson, Samuel Barber, Riegger, Carter and others.

Drop 'Davy Crocketts' From Army

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara announced today the Army will eliminate virtually all Davy Crockett atomic mortars from its units around the world.

The announcement said the Davy Crockett, once hailed as the frontline soldier's atomic punch, "was more vulnerable to enemy counterfire than desired."

This is the first acknowledgment that the Davy Crockett had failed to meet expectations. Reports to that effect circulated as long ago as 1963.

McNamara said the Army will inactivate Davy Crockett elements in all units which have 155mm howitzer batteries capable of firing an atomic shell. The action, to be completed by June 30, will eliminate all Davy Crockett units except those which might be needed by airborne or air mobile divisions and other units that do not have 155mm howitzer elements.

The Davy Crockett was added to the U.S. nuclear arsenal six years ago. The Army said at the time it could "dwarf in fire power anything we have ever known in the area of the battle line."

Operated by two-and three-man teams, Davy Crocketts were intended for use against pill boxes, bunkers, troop masses, artillery positions, command posts, supply dumps, and communications.

Akeley Area News Letter

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barton have returned from a six weeks vacation in Tampa, Florida. Mrs. Sylvia Erickson, who has been staying with her sister, Mrs. Pearl Larimer, during their absence, returned home in the Russell ambulance Tuesday evening.

Lieutenant Sandra Haller, a nurse at the AFB Hospital in Amarillo, Texas, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Haller, who met her in Buffalo Saturday. She reports back for duty March 31. A family gathering was held on Sunday at the Haller home with these in attendance: Mr. and Mrs. William Hunt and family, Mr. and Mrs. William Barrett and family, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Sears and sons and daughter Kathy, who is a student at Taylor University, Mr. and Mrs. John Putnam and daughter.

The affair also honored Amy Lynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Putnam, and James Victor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hunt, who were baptized by Rev. Arthur Hummel at the Akeley church Sunday morning. Also, for their son John Haller, who has enlisted in the Air Force and leaves for Lackland AFB in Texas on April 11. Callers during the afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. Armond La Plante of Frewsburg and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Haller and son Michael of Jamestown.

LET'S HEAR IT FOR BARBED WIRE
FRIEPORT, Ill. (AP) — Barbed wire could be rated as one of the greatest boons to agriculture, says J.C. Moore, chairman of a farm museum.
A century ago the very existence of farming was threatened by the high cost of fencing. Timber for rail fences was scarce on the prairie and plains. Prickly hedges were tried, but crowing a hedge was a slow process.
But from the prickly came the idea for barbed wire, Jacob Haish, I.L. Ellwood and Joseph F. Glidden pioneered the industry. Glidden's patent for a barb that wouldn't rotate harmlessly around the line wire earned him 25 cents royalty for each 100 pounds produced by the American Steel and Wire Company in DeKalb.
An attempt was made to prohibit barbed wire as "too cruel to animals" but proved to be unnecessary because animals learned to respect the new fence.

THAT'S WHY ATTENTION

BELGRADE (AP) — Parliament has passed a law that only the federal Meteorological Institute is allowed to issue weather forecasts. The law was aimed at a couple of amateur forecasters whose long-range weather predictions, published in some Yugoslav newspapers, have attracted considerable attention. The amateurs often have been right.

WEEK'S PREVIEW

The emphasis is on Easter this weekend, with a number of network and local station programs being presented. Religious services will be offered Sunday morning on NBC and CBS outlets.

ABC offers the "Miss Teen International Pageant" on Saturday night. This network has a full Sunday evening schedule starting with the memorable film, "The Robe," followed by "The Tony Awards" and "Eye-witness: Hanoi." On Thursday night, ABC brings a documentary on the Danube River.

NBC has a Bell Telephone Hour Sunday night which features excerpts from Handel's "Messiah," and on Monday night offers a documentary on "Leningrad." CBS has a variety special, "Marineland Carnival," on Sunday evening and a CBS news special on Tuesday night.

The educational channel, WP SX-TV, Ch. 3, brings an intimate view of prison life in the first person in "Sense of Captivity" at 8:30 p. m. Monday. News in Perspective at 8 p. m. Wednesday has a program called "The Communist World," which features Marshall Shulman, a Kremlinologist and recent figure in a Russian spy-calling episode, in a discussion of the Communist nations with three members of the New York Times news staff, Lester Markel, Max Frankel and Harrison Salisbury.

Also, Wednesday night, Ch. 3 offers the premiere television production of the American opera, "Lizzie Borden," a family portrait in three acts. Friday night there is "The War on Hunger: Can It Be Won?" as discussed on Great Decisions 1967 and followed by "The World of Carl Sandburg."

There are a variety of sports events including a golf tournament, NBA playoffs, NC swim race and diving championships, wrestling playoffs, and the regular events.

It's no secret today's viewers that almost any kind of television program can attract a large audience. The early talker variety and comedy produced films that have been aired only on TV.

And it is no secret to the motion picture industry that television has had an adverse effect on movie theatre attendance. The competition between the movie world and television is not only growing keener but also shows signs of production absorption by television interests.

A number of TV production companies have been acquiring major movie companies, notably Gulf & Western's acquisition of Paramount Pictures. Seven Arts dominates Warner Bros. and Transamerica is working on United Artists.

But the latest move has veteran movie-makers shaking in their films. Last week CBS established a division for the production and distribution of feature-length theatrical motion pictures, here and abroad, with headquarters in North Hollywood and with a former executive of Columbia Pictures Corp. as its president.

It is logical to deduce that CBS is concerned about the dwindling supply of movies available to TV and that after the box-office cream has been siphoned off, the movies will be shown on television.

TOP ADVERTISERS

If TV commercials are your excuse for leaving the room for any of several good reasons, you probably have no idea who the top advertisers are.

To assist you in closing your TV credibility gap, here are the fifteen leading advertisers for 1966, listed in the order of their dollar expenditures: Procter & Gamble (over $100 million), Bristol-Myers, General Foods, American Home Products, R. J. Reynolds, Colgate-Palmolive, General Motors, Gillette, Lever Bros., Sterling Drug, American Tobacco, Chrysler, Philip Morris, Ford Motor, and General Mills (slightly over $22 million).

There were 365 advertisers promoting 1,907 brands of products. Studer was a piker spending only $2,400. Politics did better than this. The Democratic National Party, number 371 on the list, shelled out $13,100 for exposure while the Republicans, in spot 358, spent $12,500.

Peakings of TV commercials, Micker Poore wants to put a little fun back into advertising and has announced that he will be company president of Creative Consultants Inc., an organization devoted to the creation of unusual ideas for TV and radio commercials.

CANCER CONTROL MONTH

The American Cancer Society during the month of April will be offering free radio and TV materials that will both entertain audiences and alert them to the facts about cancer that can save lives.

Included is a half-hour color film with such stars as Jack Benny, Mel Blanc, Lorne Greene, Myron Cohen, Sammy Davis Jr., and Joan Crawford, emceed by Shari Lewis and Lamb Chop.

There also will be filmed and recorded spots, ranging from 10 seconds to one minute, featuring Frank Sinatra, Ella Fitzgerald, Joan Crawford, the Flintstones, Carol Burnett, Rosalind Russell, Rock Hudson, Paul Newman, Jackie Gleason, Robert Preston, Perry Como, and others.

Leading singers of the day will be featured in recorded five-minute music spots and there will be two series of recorded comedy spots. Watch for these important messages during Cancer Month.

BELIEVE AND LIVE

By Rev. Ernest A. Kaebnick
Pastor, Starbrick Community Church

We have again come over the horizon from Palm Sunday and Good Friday to Easter—the Day that means everything to the Christian.

But over a large portion of the world today Easter is unknown. To the Confucian of China, there is no Easter. To the Hindu and Moham-medan of India and the Middle East, there is no Easter. To all who know not Christ as their living Saviour, there is no Easter. No other religion can claim a resurrected Saviour.

A schoolmaster once asked his class of boys, "Who would you say is the greatest living man." Some of the boys named certain politicians and statesmen, and others chose famous explorers and sportsmen. But one lad called out in a clear voice, "Please sir, the greatest living man is Jesus Christ." "Oh no, said the teacher in rebuke. "I said, 'living man.'" Not to be thwarted, the lad answered, "My mother told me that Jesus Christ rose from the dead, and is alive forevermore." Easter declares that there is a living Saviour as the evidence clearly proves.

Easter speaks to us of life with God both here and hereafter. This life begins with a personal faith in Jesus Christ. He is the origin and author of eternal life. It is He who said, I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live: And whosoever liveth and believeth in Me shall never die. (John 11: 25-26) In I Corinthians 15:22 St. Paul assures us, For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive.

Dr. Joseph Fort Newton in his autobiography, River of Years, tells of a day when for the first time he looked into an open grave. He was a lad when his father died. As he gripped his mother's hand it seemed as if the world was ending. Then a kindly minister said: "Jesus said unto her, I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live: And whosoever liveth and believeth in Me shall never die. Believest thou this?"

"Never shall I forget the thrill of those words," said Newton. "It was as if a great hand, stronger than the hand of a man and gentler than the hand of a woman had reached out from the unseen to touch and to heal. From that day to this I loved Jesus supremely."

One day you will stand at an open grave—maybe a wife, husband, son, daughter or friend. At that moment the only thing that will be important is this—do they have eternal life?

St. James 2:19 states, Thou believest that there is one God; thou doest well: the devils also believe, and tremble.

Is Christ the inward guide and your personal Saviour? If not, confess your sin and commit your life to Him without delay, and you will not "believe and tremble," but believe and rejoice and live.

Your Faith

The Ninety and Nine Were Safe; — But One!?

When Easter Happens

Prepared by Christian Science Committee on Publication, Boston, Mass.

The meaning of the Easter event is renewed when we begin to discover in ourselves the capacity for that "Greater Love" of which Christ Jesus spoke. "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends," Jesus said (John 15:13). And his total willingness to do this opened to all mankind a new estimate of reality—brought resurrection, showed us a new and unending life.

Our readiness to learn what Jesus' words mean in our lives can begin to open to us this vast view.

His words are a call for the most penetrating kind of self-sacrifice—for a spiritual devotion that overcomes human pride, fear, and selfishness in a triumph of divine Love.

It is literally a call to be born again. Can the "average" person accept this call, this self-surrender?

It is really inevitable. And we know this in the first stirrings of our own deepest spiritual intuition. It can happen in July on a city street, in a classroom, in an office. Easter comes when it happens in the heart.

Writing of the new birth, Mary Baker Eddy, the founder of Christian Science, said:

"It begins with moments, and goes on with years; moments of surrender to God, of child-like trust and joyful adoption of good; moments of self-abnegation, self-consecration, heaven-born hope, and spiritual love" (Miscellaneous Writings, p. 15).

Our intuition grows into perception and understanding. Gradually we gain the conviction that the lives of all men are ultimately bound together, in Truth. Then we begin to find the courage, strength, and intelligence we need to lay down our lives for each other, day by day—to sacrifice whatever is self-satisfied or self-seeking in our hearts, to break through the barriers of mortal ego.

Then Easter comes. And then we begin to see ourselves—and each other—in this new light.

For this is where the "greater love" leads—to clearer views of what is actual, to resurrection, to a life that is new and to life that is endless. Jesus said, "He that loveth his life for my sake shall FIND IT" (Matt. 10:39).

Meaning Of Easter

By Most Rev. John F. Whealon Bishop of Erie Catholic Diocese

The profound and consoling meaning of Easter is not easily understood or easily explained. Easter is a day not for the young, but for the older person—for the individual who, even in youth-conscious America, realizes that youth is gone, that life's hour is beyond halcyon, that death is inevitably approaching closer.

Easter is to all of us both reminder and proof that all the encumbrances of living—our weariness and pains, our viruses and pills, our physicians and hospitals, geriatrics and social security, all our diseases, fears, yes and even death itself—will soon be passed and will be discarded, just as the worn-out toys which he has outgrown are discarded by a child for better things.

This surely is the greatest news which any newspaper can print. This is the "Good News" of the Resurrection of Christ and of the consequences of that Resurrection for our personal lives.

The Resurrection of Christ was like an atomic explosion whose brilliant light illumines the entire New Testament and whose afterglow affects our thinking and our living.

The 15th Chapter of St. Paul's First Corinthians describes the impact of the Resurrection on our lives. These inspired words of St. Paul deserve to be required printing and required meditative reading on Easter Sunday.

Paul tells us emphatically that Christ has risen from the dead, that our dead body will follow Christ through suffering, death and resurrection to a new, risen, eternal life, that this our mortal body will put on immortality.

This is the glorious promise of Christianity; this is the final goal of a follower of Christ; this is the meaning of Easter. May all who read these words realize the meaning of Easter and know the joy of this day which the Lord has made, in which we rejoice and are glad.

Answers to Some of Your 1967 Income Tax Problems

This column of questions and answers on Federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q — I just began working here this month but won't move my family until school ends. I have been commuting weekends. Can I claim either my living costs here or my transportation expenses home?

A — Your home for tax purposes is your place of employment. Your travel and living expenses are not deductible. If you want more information on this subject, a free copy of Publication 463, "Travel, Entertainment and Gift Expenses," can be obtained at any IRS office.

Q — Must you file your 1966 return before you can apply for additional withholding allowances?

A — Yes. The additional allowances are based on the lesser of your actual itemized deductions for 1966 or your estimate of what these deductions will be this year. File Schedule A (Form W-4) with your employer to apply for these allowances. This is the first year this provision of the law applies.

Q — Our son was married in December. Will we lose our exemption for him since he otherwise qualified as our dependent?

A — If you meet all the other dependency tests, you will not lose his exemption unless he files a joint return with his wife.

Q — Can legal fees incurred for personal rather than business reasons be deducted?

A — Legal fees are not deductible unless they qualify as a business expense or are incurred for the production of income.

Q — How are child support payments treated for tax purposes? Do you include them to determine if more than half the child's support has been provided?

A — Child support payments are not deductible and are not taxable to the recipient. The payments must be considered in determining which parent is entitled to claim the child as a dependent.

Q — I lost a tree in a snowstorm we had in January (1967). Can I deduct this on my 1966 return?

A — Casualty losses can be deducted in the situation you describe only if the President has declared the area a disaster area and your loss stemmed from that event. Aside from such a special situation, casualty losses can only be deducted in the year they occurred.

Q — Are fees paid to have a tax return prepared deductible?

A — Yes, if you itemize deductions. Expenses are deductible in the year they are paid. You may only deduct on your 1966 return what you paid last year to have your 1965 return prepared. Fees paid for preparing your 1966 return will be deductible on your 1967 return.

Q — Are lump sum payments for Social Security taxable?

A — No. All Social Security benefits are tax exempt.

Q — I use my car in my work for a charitable organization. Can I deduct anything for that?

A — If you itemize deductions, you may claim 5 cents a mile for the use of the car as a contribution deduction. The organization must be a recognized charitable organization.

Q — My employer accepted a suggestion I submitted. I received an award of $500, and income tax was withheld on it. I thought this award was tax-free.

A — The award is fully taxable and your employer correctly subjected it to withholding.

Red Cross Carries Swim Program to Many Adults

Many people think that American Red Cross learn-to-swim programs are for kids. They are; but there are millions of adults—thousands right here in Pennsylvania—who don't know how to swim. They might profit by investigating free swimming courses for adults.

There are 95 chapters throughout the state, and information or instruction on swimming or other Red Cross Safety Services programs is just a phone call or a short drive away, according to Henry C. Bloss, state representative for the American Red Cross.

"We can get the jump on the 1967 summer season if we take advantage of the remainder of Red Cross Month to learn about safety in or on the water," Bloss said in his Harrisburg office.

"Last year 6,800 Americans drowned. In Pennsylvania we can reduce our share of these preventable accidents by earning a Red Cross certificate in swimming or small craft safety, or both."

Learning to swim is the best insurance against drowning, Bloss said. He added that a certain number of foolhardy adults will venture into rowboats or canoes each year without knowing how to swim; a certain percentage of these will fall out and drown. "A Red Cross course in small craft safety might prevent these individuals from falling or from being knocked out of their boats," he said, "but in any case, their best chance of survival lies in knowing how to swim."

Four relatively new booklets—Basic Rowing, Basic Canoeing, Basic Sailing and Basic Outboard Boating—support the Red Cross small craft safety courses in Pennsylvania, said Bloss. These courses provide basic and instructor training and combine classroom theory and skill practice on the water.

Red Cross volunteer instructors last year issued 139,710 certificates to Pennsylvania residents who passed courses in water safety, Bloss said. In addition, 2,673 residents were certified in small craft safety. Bloss stressed the importance of volunteerism in all Red Cross activities, and said Safety Services certification of state residents can continue only as long as people are willing to donate a little time and effort through their local Red Cross chapters. "Parents, for example, whether they can swim or not, help us help others in a number of ways. Our skilled volunteer instructors often use them as swimming aides, to take class roll, or to help in a child's mental and physical adjustment to the water."

"And who knows where this first tenuous contact with the Red Cross will lead?" asked Bloss.

Medicare Benefits Outlined

Many elderly citizens of Warren County could benefit from one of the hidden features of the Medicare law, reports Lewis Epstein, district manager of the Social Security Administration. The insurance will pay for home visits by nurses, physical therapists, and certain other health workers employed by a home health agency that is participating in the program.

Payment can be made for part-time nursing care, physical therapy, some medical supplies, use of special equipment, etc. Epstein emphasized that neither full-time nursing care nor general housekeeping are covered under this provision.

The hospital insurance part of the law and the voluntary supplementary section each provide for up to one hundred visits per year by home health workers. Under the hospital provision, the beneficiary must have been hospitalized for at least three days before payment for home visits can begin. Under the voluntary plan, he does not have to be hospitalized first to get the services. In either case, his doctor decides whether he needs the services and sets up the plan.

Providing skilled services in the home is one of the newest developments in medical care. According to Epstein, many communities have limited or no facilities for furnishing these services but the prospects of Medicare revenues should speed their development. "Warren County is fortunate," he said, "that the Visiting Nursing Association in Warren, telephone 723-4048, is equipped to provide a wide range of services to the home-bound residents."

Plan Traffic Safety School For Officers

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. — A Traffic Officers Training School, offered annually by The Pennsylvania State University's Institute of Public Safety, will be conducted here May 15 to 26 for new and experienced traffic and other police officers. The School is a continuing education program offering a comprehensive study of traffic control topics such as the Pennsylvania vehicle code, the operation of traffic safety schools, participation in school safety programs, and accident investigation.

Lectures during the two-week program will be presented by leading Pennsylvania police officers, safety directors, and members of the legal profession. Harry C. Brainerd, Pennsylvania Commissioner of Traffic Safety will discuss the "Operation of Traffic Safety Schools," and Charles S. Loucks, field safety specialist, Interstate Commerce Commission, will speak on "Problems Concerning Transportation of Dangerous Articles."

Among other speakers will be G. Richard Whitney, district director, Field Services Department, National Safety Council; and Sam Yaksich Jr., manager, Pedestrian and School Safety Division, American Automobile Association.

Additional information about the program may be obtained by writing to the Conference Center, J. Orvis Keller Building, The Pennsylvania State University, University Park, Pa. 16802.

Key Navy Role For Graduates

There's a key role in the U.S. Navy for young men who are high school graduates.

According to the local recruiter at the YMCA, the graduate has an exceptional opportunity to bring significance and stature into his young life.

To the navy, the recruiter noted, the high school graduate is no longer a boy, he's a man, capable of meeting his patriotic obligations.

Recent graduates or those who graduate this summer, interested in immediate enlistment into the navy with many school opportunities and a varied choice are urged to contact the recruiter at the Y.
